Unified Germany Figures in Proposals; Eisenhower Stresses Safety for World

Peace Path Referred To As Goal

Problems Not Beyond Solving

Geneva, July 18 (AP)—Following is the text in part of President Eisenhower's opening speech to the Geneva Big Four summit parley:

We meet here for a simple purpose. We have come to find a basis for accommodation which will make life safer and happier not only for the nations we represent but for people elsewhere.

WE ARE HERE in response to a universal urge, recognized by Premier Bulganin in his speech of July 15, that the political leaders of our great countries find a path to peace.

We cannot expect here, in the few hours of a few days, to solve all the problems of all the world that need to be solved. Indeed, the four of us meeting here have no authority from others that could justify us even in attempting that. The roots of many of these problems are buried deep in war, conflicts and history. They are made even more difficult by the differences in governmental ideologies and ambitions. Manifestly it is out of the question in the short time available to the heads of government meeting here to trace out the causes and origins of these problems and to devise agreements that could with complete fairness to all eliminate them.

NEVERTHELESS, we can, perhaps, create a new spirit that will make possible future solutions of problems which are within our responsibilities. And equally important we can try to take here now at Geneva the first steps on a new road to a just and durable peace.

The problems that concern us are not inherently insoluble. Of course, they are difficult; but their solution is not beyond the wisdom of man. They seem insoluble under conditions of fear, distrust, and even hostility, where every move is weighted in terms of whether it will help or weaken a potential enemy. If those conditions can be changed, then much can be done. Under such circumstances, I am confident that at a later stage our foreign ministers will be able to carry on from where we leave off to find, either by themselves or with others, solutions to our problems.

NO DOUBT there are among our nations philosophical convictions which are in many respects irreconcilable. Nothing that we can say or do here will change that fact. However, it is not always necessary that people should think alike and believe alike before they can work together. The essential thing is that none should attempt by force or trickery to make his beliefs prevail and thus to impose his system on the unwilling.

The new approach we of this conference should seek cannot be found merely by talking in terms of abstractions and generalities. It is necessary that we talk frankly about the concrete problems which create tension between us and about the way to begin in solving them.

AS A PREFACE, may I indicate some of the issues I think we should discuss?

First is the problem of unifying Germany and forming an all-German government based on free elections. Ten years have passed since the German armistice—and Germany is still divided. That division does a grievous wrong to a people which is entitled, like any other, to pursue together a common destiny.

While that division continues, it creates a basic source of instability in Europe. Our talk of peace has little meaning if at the same time we perpetuate conditions endangering the peace. Toward Germany, the four of us bear special responsibilities. While any conclusions we reach would be invalid unless supported by majority opinion in Germany, this problem should be a central topic for our meeting here. Must we not consider ways to solve it promptly and justly?

In the interest of enduring Peace, our solution should take account of the legitimate security interests of all concerned. That is why we insist a unified Germany is entitled at its choice, to exercise its inherent right of collective self-defense. By the

22 Die, 21 Hurt In Chicago Crash

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Engineers are examining each instrument and part of a wrecked Braniff airliner today to determine why it crashed in flames, killing 22 persons and injuring 21.

The twin-engined Convair, loaded to capacity, was coming in low for an instrument landing in the early morning fog yesterday when it clipped a gasoline station sign at the edge of Midway Airport, flipped over and plowed into the ground.

"THE PLANE should never have attempted the landing," said Cook County Coroner Walter McCarron, who is conducting an inquest.

At Dallas, Braniff headquarters said they would not comment on his statement at this time because "the investigation of the safety of this operation now is in the hands of investigators of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

A spokesman for the AFL Air Line Pilots' Assn., which also is investigating the crash, said it may take several months to determine the exact cause of the disaster.

"IT COULD have been a combination of things that may have started 500 miles away," he said.

The plane, enroute from Dallas to Chicago, ticked against the 15-foot high electric sign, crashed a fence and spun onto its back inside the airport, one wing ripped off and the other aflame.

The wreckage skidded nearly half a mile, to within a few hundred yards of the airport fire station. Fast acting crash crews

9 Injured, 1 Arrested In 2 Mishaps

Nine persons were reported injured, none seriously, and one driver was arrested as the result of two traffic mishaps in the uptown sector over the weekend.

Joan Madeline Reis, 18, of 57 Fairmont avenue, was reported injured in a two-car collision at John and Wall streets Saturday. She was taken by a Schultz ambulance to Kingston Hospital where she was admitted for treatment of a back injury. Her condition was reported as "good" today.

A POLICE report at 9:21 p. m., said a car operated by Robert Badian, 30, of 76 Clinton avenue, was headed west on John street, and a sedan, owned by Ruth Reis, and driven by Joan Madeline Reis, was going north on Wall street.

Badian was arrested on a charge of failure to have a driver's license with him. A suspended $10 fine was imposed today by Special City Judge Harry Gold, who noted that the lack of license resulted of failure to obtain a renewal. The suspended fine, he said, resulted of the fact that the defendant gave a satis-

Probation Board Member Hits at NY State System

New York, July 18 (AP) — Leonard E. Probst, a member of the New York State Commission on Probation, says "I don't like our whole system" on probation.

He says he plans to resign as soon as there is a decision on the issue of whether probation officers in New York city should be appointed on the basis of religion.

Probst, who was reappointed as a commissioner three weeks ago by Gov. Averell Harriman, discussed the probation system last night on the WABD television program "Between The Lines."

He said he had accepted reappointment to serve only until the question of religion was settled. In an interview after the program, Probst said he expects the decision to be made at a commission hearing shortly after Labor Day.

Probst said he believes Harriman is "going in the right direction" in his probation program, but he declared the probation department "should not be a part of the Department of Correction."

The probation system is not uniform in all counties of the state, he added, and in most instances it is not up to the caliber of the service rendered in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens in New York city.

Probst said the commission will re-examine its advisory opinion of last May that the Children's Courts in New York city are violating the state anti-discrimination law in appointing probation officers by separate Catholic, Protestant and Jewish lists. He noted that four new members of the seven-member commission have taken office through appointment by Harriman since the unanimous opinion was issued last May.

The avowed purpose of considering religion in appointment of probation officers is to assign them to juvenile offenders of their own faith.

Ulster's 4th Polio Case Is Reported

State Announces 57 New Afflictions

A 36-year-old woman, a resident of the southern part of Ulster county, has become the county's fourth polio victim since January 1, it was reported this morning by Dr. Dudley Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner.

This report came at the same time that the State Health Department reported 25 new cases of polio in the 57 counties outside New York city during the week that ended last Saturday.

DR. HARGRAVE said the case was mild, although there was some paralysis. She has not been hospitalized but is under care at her home.

He said persons with whom the woman had been in contact, six in all, both neighbors and her own household, had received gamma globulin.

Since the beginning of the year there have been four cases involving one adult and two children. The first adult case was in the city of Kingston, the others in scattered parts of the county.

THE TOTAL for last week compared with 12 cases in the preceding seven days and 16 in the corresponding week last year.

Through last Saturday, 137 cases of polio have been reported in the 57 counties, against 98 cases in the corresponding period of 1954.

The department said the three

Two New Yorkers Drown in Sullivan

Two residents of New York city were drowned in the Delaware river near the hamlet of Cochecton, Sullivan county, about 10:20 a. m., Sunday.

They were Mrs. Rita Grass Wells, 19, and Andrew Ernest Grass, 13, both of 1090 Amsterdam avenue, according to troopers of the Highland station. Investigation was by Lt. J. J. Miklas of Ferndale, and troopers of the Narrowsburg station.

TROOPERS said the two were swimming together when the the boy "got into trouble" in a hole in the river about 15 or 20 feet deep. His sister attempted to pull him out and they both drowned.

Artificial respiration was applied by the Callicoon Fire Department without effect.

Dr. George Mills of Callicoon, acting coroner's physician, returned a verdict of accidental death due to drowning. The bodies were turned over to the Kelley-Stewart Funeral Home, Callicoon.

Mrs. Wells' husband is with the U. S. Army in Germany. Parents of the victims were present at the scene, troopers said.

Carolina Plant Planned

Fuller Firm Here To Expand Forces

One of Kingston's oldest industries today announced an expansion program which will augment the Kingston plant operations through the opening of a second plant in the south.

William T. Fuller, president of the Fuller Shirt Company, and Clarence S. Rowland, treasurer, announced that increased sales have made it necessary to negotiate for a second plant in South Carolina where the Fuller-Skyline Companies will manufacture men's and boy's dress and sport shirts.

THE MAIN office and parent manufacturing company will continue its operations in Kingston where the company is now seeking additional experienced help.

"We could use an additional 50 to 100 experienced operators in the Kingston plant in order to meet present demand," said Fuller.

The Fuller Shirt Company is one of Kingston's oldest industries, established in 1892 and the 63-year-old company is now being operated by the fourth generation of the founders of the business. Presently the Fuller and Skyline companies are operating on Pine Grove avenue where the company employs over 500 persons in their 70,000 square feet factory. It was pointed out that in order to meet present demands the company could use an additional 50 to 100 employes in its present plant and where it has adjoining land for an additional 50,000 square feet of factory space. The payroll of the company is presently over $1,250,000 a year.

Camper, 8, Drowns in The Wallkill

An eight-year-old boy attending Camp Dineen on Route 32 about four miles north of New Paltz drowned early Saturday night when he fell from a steep embankment into the Wallkill river.

He was Allen Martin, son of Earl Martin of 445 East 102nd street, New York.

The Martin child, who was unable to swim, slipped down the embankment and into the river about 7:30 p. m. His body was recovered by Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg with grappling hooks about 10:30 p. m.

TROOPER Michael Lisman, BCI, of the Highland Station, who was at the scene, said the boy drowned in about 20 feet of water not six feet from the bank. He was with three other campers at the time, all 10 years of age — William McIntry, Charles Kayok and Victor Gardayo.

According to Lisman, the water drops suddenly from about a foot in depth to 15 or 20 feet.

A number of camp counselors began diving for the child almost immediately but currents had taken the boy away from the bank. When Sheriff Schantz and Undersheriff Vredenburg recovered his body it was about 30 feet from shore.

ACCORDING to Mr. Vredenburg, the boy was reported to Separate Ideas Are Advanced

End of All Iron Curtains Sought

Geneva, July 18 (AP) — The summit conference opened today with the Big Three western powers laying before Soviet Russia a series of new proposals for European security, built around a unified Germany.

In quick succession President Eisenhower, French Premier Edgar Faure and British Prime Minister Eden advanced separate ideas as to how Russia could be safeguarded against a united and rearmed Germany.

Eden also put forward a proposal that the Big Four seek agreement on arms ceilings for Germany and neighboring countries, with the four powers joining in a system of control to prevent violations.

Despite the appearance of a coordinated program by the west, it was understood the leaders of the U. S. delegation were concerned about some of the proposals in Faure's speech. Informed quarters said the United States would not be bound by points it had not approved.

These included a proposal that arms reductions be controlled in the national budgets and Faure's call for inclusion of Germany in a general European security organization.

Eisenhower disclosed the West would agree to consider new guarantees for the Soviets if Russia would go along on German reunification.

He called for an end of the "dreary exercises" of the cold war and urged East-West negotiations on a unified Germany.

Eisenhower laid down a six-point program of action aimed at ending the dangers of atomic war, ushering in a period of atomic plenty and ringing down Iron Curtains all over the world.

He called for a reduction of the world's "burden of costly armament" and at the same time urged cessation of the subversive activities of international communism.

A cut in the arms burden he said, "would and should insure that part of the savings would flow into the less developed areas of the world to assist their economic development."

Unification of Germany should be given top priority by the Summit meeting, Eisenhower said, but the problem should be solved with proper safeguards for Russia's "legitimate security interests."

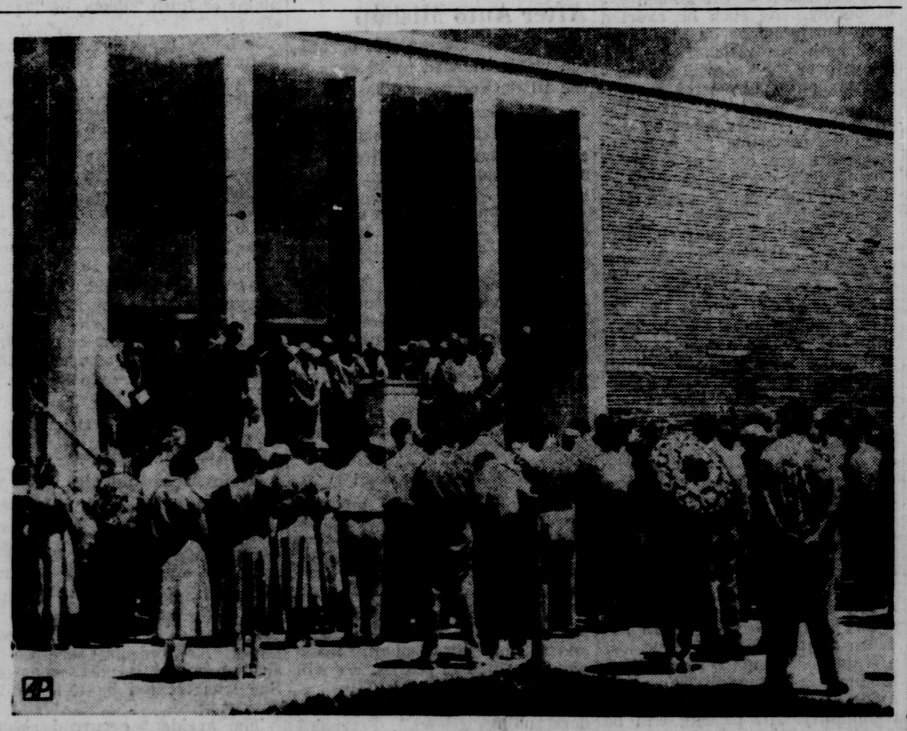

Eisenhower did not make specific proposals on European security, but stated simply that the United States would be willing to consider additional safeguards if Russia thought she would be threatened by a united Germany.

Faure suggested the general European pact, along wtih a series of western guarantees, and Eden proposed still other steps. Eden suggested:

1. That Britain would be prepared to become party to a security pact including the United States, Russia, France and a United Germany.

2. That Britain would be ready to negotiate with the others on limits of forces on each side in Germany and the neighboring countries. He did not mention which countries would be includ-

Washington Avenue Fire Damages Upstairs Bedroom

A fire of undetermined origin damaged part of an upstairs bedroom in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sharkin, at 240 Washington avenue Sunday night.

A door, section of wall, the door frame, other woodwork, and some clothing were damaged. Firemen reported intense heat and dense smoke. The damaged clothing included a boy's baseball suit and several dresses.

Roy Melbert, a member of the Rifton fire department, and a neighbor of the Sharkins checked the blaze with a garden hose before firemen arrived. Firemen also used a chemical after their arrival.

Firemen were notified first by telephone at 10:53 p. m., and this was followed by an alarm from Box 1521, Washington avenue and Main street. Men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Wicks Engine Company and Excelsior Hose Company responded. Chief James Brett and Deputy Chief Harold Sanford were also at the house.

Mrs. Sharkin said that the family had been out and the fire was discovered by their son, Joseph, 9, when they returned. He attempted stomping the blaze from clothing which had been hanging on a door, she said. Mr. Sharkin is the manager of a coat factory at 17 Cornell street.

Melbert was driving on Washington avenue near the house when the fire was discovered. He assisted with the hose after it was brought from a cellar by a neighbor of the Sharkins.

Police headquarters was also notified and Officers Joseph Kivlan and Floyd LaForge were dispatched there to cover traffic.

Inspection after the blaze was checked indicated no apparent cause.

Probation Board Member Hits at NY State System

New York, July 18 (AP) — Leonard E. Probst, a member of the New York State Commission on Probation, says "I don't like our whole system" on probation.

He says he plans to resign as soon as there is a decision on the issue of whether probation officers in New York city should be appointed on the basis of religion.

Probst, who was reappointed as a commissioner three weeks ago by Gov. Averell Harriman, discussed the probation system last night on the WABD television program "Between The Lines."

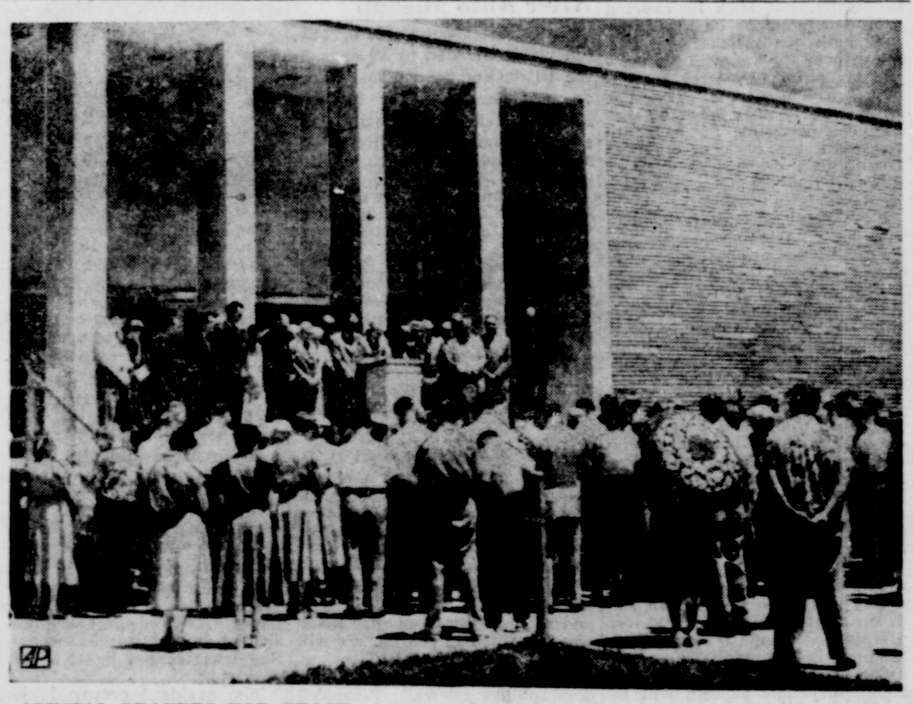

He said he had accepted reappointment to serve only until the question of religion was settled. In an interview after the program, Probst said he expects the decision to be made at a commission hearing shortly after Labor Day.

Probst said he believes Harriman is "going in the right direction" in his probation program, but he declared the probation department "should not be a part of the Department of Correction."

The probation system is not uniform in all counties of the state, he added, and in most instances it is not up to the caliber of the service rendered in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens in New York city.

Probst said the commission will re-examine its advisory opinion of last May that the Children's Courts in New York city are violating the state anti-discrimination law in appointing probation officers by separate Catholic, Protestant and Jewish lists. He noted that four new members of the seven-member commission have taken office through appointment by Harriman since the unanimous opinion was issued last May.

The avowed purpose of considering religion in appointment of probation officers is to assign them to juvenile offenders of their own faith.

Washington Avenue Fire Damages Upstairs Bedroom

A fire of undetermined origin damaged part of an upstairs bedroom in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sharkin, at 240 Washington avenue Sunday night.

A door, section of wall, the door frame, other woodwork, and some clothing were damaged. Firemen reported intense heat and dense smoke. The damaged clothing included a boy's baseball suit and several dresses.

Roy Melbert, a member of the Rifton fire department, and a neighbor of the Sharkins checked the blaze with a garden hose before firemen arrived. Firemen also used a chemical after their arrival.

Firemen were notified first by telephone at 10:53 p. m., and this was followed by an alarm from Box 1521, Washington avenue and Main street. Men and equipment from Central and Wiltwyck stations, Wicks Engine Company and Excelsior Hose Company responded. Chief James Brett and Deputy Chief Harold Sanford were also at the house.

Mrs. Sharkin said that the family had been out and the fire was discovered by their son, Joseph, 9, when they returned. He attempted stomping the blaze from clothing which had been hanging on a door, she said. Mr. Sharkin is the manager of a coat factory at 17 Cornell street.

Melbert was driving on Washington avenue near the house when the fire was discovered. He assisted with the hose after it was brought from a cellar by a neighbor of the Sharkins.

Police headquarters was also notified and Officers Joseph Kivlan and Floyd LaForge were dispatched there to cover traffic.

Inspection after the blaze was checked indicated no apparent cause.

Bus Riders Damage Resort

Three Youths Fined $10 For Plattekill Trouble

An orgy of vandalism by a group of youths on a bus tour from New York city did considerable damage to the Villa Victoria, a bar, grill and boarding house at Plattekill, early Saturday night.

A group of officers from the Ulster county sheriff's office, headed by Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg, rushed to the villa where windows and doors had been broken, bottles smashed, etc. A call for assistance came from Joseph Vega, proprietor of the establishment.

THE SHERIFF, undersheriff and some of the deputies were at the parade in Ellenville celebrating the 150th anniversary of the founding of the village when they were notified of the disturbance in Plattekill.

Four youths all in their teens or early twenties were involved in the affair, the sheriff's office reported.

Vega called to say the youths, members of a six-bus caravan from New York, were "breaking things up," according to the sheriff's office.

"THEY WERE creating quite a disturbance," Mr. Vredenburg said, pointing out, however, they calmed down immediately when a force of eight or ten men from the sheriff's office arrived on the scene.

Three of the youth were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, arraigned by Justice of Peace Charles Demsky, of the town of Plattekill, pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each.

They were Pedro Medina, 23, Hector Careona, 17, and Alexander Cruz, 23, all of Brooklyn. A fourth youth, 14 years of age, said to have been involved in the disturbance was not arrested.

Assisting the sheriff and undersheriff were deputies Joseph Gentile, Lloyd Spearman, William Thompson, Chester Wolven, Peter Petersen and Charles McCullough.

Camper, 8,

have clung momentarily to a post in the river before he sank.

Troopers of the Highland Station had dragging operations under way "within minutes" after the boy fell in. About 8:55 p. m. Fire Chief Ernest B. Ahlberg of the New Paltz Fire Department called the Ulster county sheriff's office to request additional grappling hooks and Deputy George Bynner was dispatched with four sets.

EVEN WITH the presence of a lifeguard about 50 yards away the boy could not be saved because he went down so fast, Lisman said.

John Ward, 16, of Jackson Heights, L. I., counselor for the group of boys to which Martin had been assigned, had left the four boys fishing along the bank only a minute or two before the accident, it was reported. He expected to return immediately.

Sheriff Schantz was rowing the boat and Mr. Vredenburg handling the grappling irons when the child was recovered, it was reported. One of the irons caught the boy by the leg and he was brought feet-first to the surface.

THE CAMP is operated by the Catholic Charities Youth Division.

At the scene from the sheriff's office were Deputies Joseph Gentile, James Marano, Chester Wolven, Thomas Mayone, Carl Cline and George Bynner. Sgt. A. W. McDonald of the Highland Station, Lt. J. J. Micklas of Ferndale and Troopers John Ripa and J. Steinhilber also assisted in recovery of the body.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle investigated at the scene and issued a verdict of accidental death due to drowning. The body was turned over to the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz, pending funeral arrangements.

Cooking Gas Tanks Explode, Wrecks House

Two tanks of cooking gas exploded Sunday afternoon, probably of expansion from the direct rays of the hot sun, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Weiss at Cairo Junction, Greene county, Sergeant Francis W. Hilfrank of the Catskill state police reports.

The exploding gas tanks knocked in the side of the house and one of the tanks was blown 450 feet from the house and split open. The second tank landed 45 feet from the house which was damaged and ripped apart near where the explosion took place. Closets in a bathroom were shaken loose and a two inch metal pipe was cracked. State police said the direct rays of the sun had shone on the tanks all afternoon and it is believed the safety valves on the tanks failed to work. Mr. and Mrs. Weiss were visiting a neighbor when the explosion took place and no one was injured.

Business, Civic

that capacity under the administrations of Oscar V. Newkirk and Frederick H. Stang.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge, 550, BPO Elks, Kingston Branch of the Workman's Circle, and Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Formerly the operator of a tire recapping business on North Front street, Mr. Singer had been a real estate broker in recent years.

FUNERAL SERVICES were scheduled today at 3 p. m. at the F. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home, 88 West Chester street, and to be conducted by Dr. H. Z. Rappaport, rabbi, Congregation Agudas Achim. Burial was to be in Montrepose Cemetery.

Sunday evening hundreds of friends called to pay their last respects, and at 7 o'clock, the Kingston Patrolmen's Association called and were led in prayer by police chaplain, Dr. Rappaport. At 8 p. m., Kingston Lodge 550, BPOE, held their ritualistic services.

AMONG CITY officials calling were Mayor Stang, Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, Fire Chief James M. Brett, Police Chief Raymond A. Van Buren, and police commissioners Robert S. Evory, Willis Locke and James Murphy.

His affinity with boxing, which began during his boyhood days in New York city, gained him countless friends in the fistic profession, and led him to a career as a referee licensed by the New York State Athletic Commission. Raised in the same neighborhood with the late Benny Leonard, former world's lightweight champion, the two were frequent sparring partners in their youth, and the former champion made many personal appearances at boxing shows in the area because of his friendship with Mr. Singer, who was also the personal friend of many other champions.

IN THE ERA of Walk Miller's training camp at Eddyville, at which former world's light-heavyweight champion Tiger Flowers trained, Mr. Singer was a frequent visitor. He also promoted professional boxing at the old Fair Grounds.

Business, political and sports figures today paid tribute to Mr. Singer led by Senator Arthur H. Wicks who said, "Bill Singer was an outstanding citizen and a distinguished public official having served as police commissioner for many years. I join with the rest of our citizens in mourning his loss and extend my deepest sympathy to the bereaved members of his family."

Mayor Frederick H. Stang said, "I was greatly shocked to hear of the sudden death of Commissioner William Singer. His service to the city in various capacities and as a police commissioner for the last eight to 10 years showed his understanding of the department and a willingness to cooperate in all matters for the efficiency of the department. His loss will be felt by a great many people, and I join his many hundreds of friends in expressing my deepest sympathy to his bereaved family."

ALDERMAN-AT-LARGE Joseph Kelly said, "I met Bill Singer shortly after his arrival from New York city, and he has been a close friend since then. Bill was a fine sportsman, fair in every respect. He had great business ability as evidenced by his success in the various enterprises to which he devoted his time. He had a happy outlook on life and a good sense of humor. His sudden death will sadden many in all walks of life."

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor said, "Bill Singer was a product of the golden era of boxing. As such he exerted profound influence on local boxing, both professional and amateur, over the years in his various capacities as referee, matchmaker and promoter. Together with the late Sam Riber he was largely responsible for a highly successful era of local amateur boxing. His death is a distinct loss to the boxing world and local sports in general."

Dr. Saul S. Goldfarb, who had been associated with Mr. Singer in the promotion of boxing sponsored by B'Nai B'rith Lodge described him as "one of the fairest-minded individuals who was always ready to do a favor. His host of many friends are deeply saddened by his passing."

FORMER MAYOR, William F. Edelmuth said," Bill Singer was one of the most liberal men who always did much for the poor. He was always helping someone. He was a great man in sports, and a very proud and interested police commissioner. I will miss him greatly."

Dick McCarthy of the Freeman staff who announces boxing shows in this area said, "In the death of Bill Singer, I have lost a truly fine friend. His affability, kindness and humanitarian spirit made him a great friend of the community. His passing will be deeply mourned."

Joe Vozdik of Saugerties, a referee in the New York State Athletic Commission, characterized Mr. Singer as "one of the real great men in the officiating profession. His integrity, charity and warmth of personality made him respected in boxing. We will all miss him."

"We have lost a true and understanding friend," President Meyer Levy of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, said, "each and every officer on the Kingston Police Department will miss Commissioner Singer."

2 Poughkeepsie Youths Killed as Car Hits Tree

Two youths were killed early Sunday morning when their car, careening down a highway at "well over 80 miles an hour," went out of control and was demolished against a tree on Route 9G, about four miles north of Poughkeepsie, according to the Dutchess county sheriff's office.

THE VICTIMS were Vincent Hollister, 17, and Brian J. Corcoran, 20, both of Poughkeepsie.

Corcoran who was driving his 1948 sedan was trapped inside the wreckage. Police and firemen worked more than two hours to extricate his body.

A SHERIFF'S deputy estimated that the car was going "just as fast as it could," when it went out of control about 200 feet from the tree. Tire marks showed it caromed across the road several times before crashing.

Investigating were deputies L. M. Quinlan and Albert Traver, assisted by officers of the Town of Poughkeepsie Police Department.

Dismiss Assault Charge Against Martha Struber

A second degree assault charge against Martha Struber, 32, of 160 Murray street, was dismissed today after a preliminary examination before Special City Judge Harry Gold.

THE CHARGE dates back to July 5 when the defendant allegedly discharged a shotgun so that some of the shot struck the feet of her husband, LeRoy, outside of their Murray street home.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for the defendant, and John E. Gotelli for the district attorney's office at this morning's hearing.

Judge Gold said he considered lack of evidence to indicate she had actually intended to shoot her husband. The gun, it was indicated, was aimed at the ground near him.

Officers Gilbert Gray and Joseph Kivlan were dispatched to the house on the date of the arrest. The husband was admitted to Kingston Hospital for treatment and was discharged July 9.

TWO OTHER arrests on charges of third degree assault were reported Saturday.

After a complaint Saturday at 10:50 p. m., that a woman was being beaten at 56 Henry street, Glenford Miller, of that address was arrested by Officers William Slover and Joseph Keller, on complaint of Frances O'Brien, of 56 Henry street. The charge was dismissed in city court when the complaintant failed to appear.

Ulster's 4th

cases of non-paralytic polio among children who had received vaccine were a 7-year-old boy and a 7-year-old girl from Troy, and a 7-year-old girl from Albany.

The department offered this breakdown of new cases by counties:

NASSAU AND Rensselaer, 5 each; Broome and Westchester, 3 each; Albany, 2; Cortland, Erie, Monroe, Oneida, Orange, Suffolk and Wayne, 1 each.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, today made public a letter he had sent to all upstate physicians recommending the use of Salk vaccine during the summer.

Dr. Hilleboe said in part: "I am recommending the use of polio vaccine, because of views of the expert committees . . . in their opinion the preventive benefits are far greater than the possible hazards of paralysis-provoking effects. Doctors should be in a position to inform the parents of the children to be injected of the relative advantages and risks."

Dr. Hilleboe cited a report of expert committees called together by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which stated that the experience in last year's field trials and the use of Salk vaccine so far this year "fails to indicate any evidence" that the vaccine had any so-called provocative effect "either as an increased incidence of paralytic disease or in the localization of paralysis in the injected limb."

Outlook on Polio

New York, July 18 (AP)—The city health commissioner predicts New York city will escape a polio epidemic this year even though the number of cases so far is much larger than in the corresponding period of last year. Dr. Leona Baumgartner said yesterday 107 cases were reported through July 15 this year, compared to 31 cases in the same period last year. However, she added, the statistical pattern is "similar to the pattern of nonepidemic years." The last epidemic year here was 1949 when a total of 2,446 cases developed, most of them in September.

Bus Riders Damage Resort

Three Youths Fined $10 For Plattekill Trouble

Camper, 8,

have clung momentarily to a post in the river before he sank.

Troopers of the Highland Station had dragging operations under way "within minutes" after the boy fell in. About 8:55 p. m. Fire Chief Ernest B. Ahlberg of the New Paltz Fire Department called the Ulster county sheriff's office to request additional grappling hooks and Deputy George Bynner was dispatched with four sets.

EVEN WITH the presence of a lifeguard about 50 yards away the boy could not be saved because he went down so fast, Lisman said.

John Ward, 16, of Jackson Heights, L. I., counselor for the group of boys to which Martin had been assigned, had left the four boys fishing along the bank only a minute or two before the accident, it was reported. He expected to return immediately.

Sheriff Schantz was rowing the boat and Mr. Vredenburg handling the grappling irons when the child was recovered, it was reported. One of the irons caught the boy by the leg and he was brought feet-first to the surface.

THE CAMP is operated by the Catholic Charities Youth Division.

At the scene from the sheriff's office were Deputies Joseph Gentile, James Marano, Chester Wolven, Thomas Mayone, Carl Cline and George Bynner. Sgt. A. W. McDonald of the Highland Station, Lt. J. J. Mieklas of Ferndale and Troopers John Ripa and J. Steinhilber also assisted in recovery of the body.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle investigated at the scene and issued a verdict of accidental death due to drowning. The body was turned over to the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz, pending funeral arrangements.

An orgy of vandalism by a group of youths on a bus tour from New York city did considerable damage to the Villa Victoria, a bar, grill and boarding house at Plattekill, early Saturday night.

A group of officers from the Ulster county sheriff's office, headed by Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg, rushed to the villa where windows and doors had been broken, bottles smashed, etc. A call for assistance came from Joseph Vega, proprietor of the establishment.

THE SHERIFF, undersheriff and some of the deputies were at the parade in Ellenville celebrating the 150th anniversary of the founding of the village when they were notified of the disturbance in Plattekill.

Four youths all in their teens or early twenties were involved in the affair, the sheriff's office reported.

Vega called to say the youths, members of a six-bus caravan from New York, were "breaking things up," according to the sheriff's office.

"THEY WERE creating quite a disturbance," Mr. Vredenburg said, pointing out, however, they calmed down immediately when a force of eight or ten men from the sheriff's office arrived on the scene.

Three of the youth were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, arraigned by Justice of Peace Charles Demsky, of the town of Plattekill, pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each.

They were Pedro Medina, 23, Hector Careona, 17, and Alexander Cruz, 23, all of Brooklyn. A fourth youth, 14 years of age, said to have been involved in the disturbance was not arrested.

Assisting the sheriff and undersheriff were deputies Joseph Gentile, Lloyd Spearman, William Thompson, Chester Wolven, Peter Petersen and Charles McCullough.

Cooking Gas Tanks Explode, Wrecks House

Two tanks of cooking gas exploded Sunday afternoon, probably of expansion from the direct rays of the hot sun, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Weiss at Cairo Junction, Greene county, Sergeant Francis W. Hilfrank of the Catskill state police reports.

The exploding gas tanks knocked in the side of the house and one of the tanks was blown 450 feet from the house and split open. The second tank landed 45 feet from the house which was damaged and ripped apart near where the explosion took place. Closets in a bathroom were shaken loose and a two inch metal pipe was cracked. State police said the direct rays of the sun had shone on the tanks all afternoon and it is believed the safety valves on the tanks failed to work. Mr. and Mrs. Weiss were visiting a neighbor when the explosion took place and no one was injured.

Business, Civic

that capacity under the administrations of Oscar V. Newkirk and Frederick H. Stang.

He was a member of Kingston Lodge, 550, BPO Elks, Kingston Branch of the Workman's Circle, and Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Formerly the operator of a tire recapping business on North Front street, Mr. Singer had been a real estate broker in recent years.

FUNERAL SERVICES were scheduled today at 3 p. m. at the F. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home, 88 West Chester street, and to be conducted by Dr. H. Z. Rappaport, rabbi, Congregation Agudas Achim. Burial was to be in Montrepose Cemetery.

Sunday evening hundreds of friends called to pay their last respects, and at 7 o'clock, the Kingston Patrolmen's Association called and were led in prayer by police chaplain, Dr. Rappaport. At 8 p. m., Kingston Lodge 550, BPOE, held their ritualistic services.

AMONG CITY officials calling were Mayor Stang, Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, Fire Chief James M. Brett, Police Chief Raymond A. Van Buren, and police commissioners Robert S. Evory, Willis Locke and James Murphy.

His affinity with boxing, which began during his boyhood days in New York city, gained him countless friends in the fistic profession, and led him to a career as a referee licensed by the New York State Athletic Commission. Raised in the same neighborhood with the late Benny Leonard, former world's lightweight champion, the two were frequent sparring partners in their youth, and the former champion made many personal appearances at boxing shows in the area because of his friendship with Mr. Singer, who was also the personal friend of many other champions.

IN THE ERA of Walk Miller's training camp at Eddyville, at which former world's light-heavyweight champion Tiger Flowers trained, Mr. Singer was a frequent visitor. He also promoted professional boxing at the old Fair Grounds.

Business, political and sports figures today paid tribute to Mr. Singer led by Senator Arthur H. Wicks who said, "Bill Singer was an outstanding citizen and a distinguished public official having served as police commissioner for many years. I join with the rest of our citizens in mourning his loss and extend my deepest sympathy to the bereaved members of his family."

Mayor Frederick H. Stang said, "I was greatly shocked to hear of the sudden death of Commissioner William Singer. His service to the city in various capacities and as a police commissioner for the last eight to 10 years showed his understanding of the department and a willingness to cooperate in all matters for the efficiency of the department. His loss will be felt by a great many people, and I join his many hundreds of friends in expressing my deepest sympathy to his bereaved family."

ALDERMAN-AT-LARGE Joseph Kelly said, "I met Bill Singer shortly after his arrival from New York city, and he has been a close friend since then. Bill was a fine sportsman, fair in every respect. He had great business ability as evidenced by his success in the various enterprises to which he devoted his time. He had a happy outlook on life and a good sense of humor. His sudden death will sadden many in all walks of life."

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor said, "Bill Singer was a product of the golden era of boxing. As such he exerted profound influence on local boxing, both professional and amateur, over the years in his various capacities as referee, matchmaker and promoter. Together with the late Sam Riber he was largely responsible for a highly successful era of local amateur boxing. His death is a distinct loss to the boxing world and local sports in general."

Dr. Saul S. Goldfarb, who had been associated with Mr. Singer in the promotion of boxing sponsored by B'Nai B'rith Lodge described him as "one of the fairest-minded individuals who was always ready to do a favor. His host of many friends are deeply saddened by his passing."

FORMER MAYOR, William F. Edelmuth said," Bill Singer was one of the most liberal men who always did much for the poor. He was always helping someone. He was a great man in sports, and a very proud and interested police commissioner. I will miss him greatly."

Dick McCarthy of the Freeman staff who announces boxing shows in this area said, "In the death of Bill Singer, I have lost a truly fine friend. His affability, kindness and humanitarian spirit made him a great friend of the community. His passing will be deeply mourned."

Joe Vozdik of Saugerties, a referee in the New York State Athletic Commission, characterized Mr. Singer as "one of the real great men in the officiating profession. His integrity, charity and warmth of personality made him respected in boxing. We will all miss him."

"We have lost a true and understanding friend," President Meyer Levy of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, said, "each and every officer on the Kingston Police Department will miss Commissioner Singer."

Corcoran who was driving his 1948 sedan was trapped inside the wreckage. Police and firemen worked more than two hours to extricate his body.

Dismiss Assault Charge Against Martha Struber

A second degree assault charge against Martha Struber, 32, of 160 Murray street, was dismissed today after a preliminary examination before Special City Judge Harry Gold.

THE CHARGE dates back to July 5 when the defendant allegedly discharged a shotgun so that some of the shot struck the feet of her husband, LeRoy, outside of their Murray street home.

Attorney Joseph Avis appeared for the defendant, and John E. Gotelli for the district attorney's office at this morning's hearing.

Officers Gilbert Gray and Joseph Kivlan were dispatched to the house on the date of the arrest. The husband was admitted to Kingston Hospital for treatment and was discharged July 9.

TWO OTHER arrests on charges of third degree assault were reported Saturday.

A parade, beard-judging contest, pageant and fireworks closed out the week-long Ellenville Sesquicentennial celebration Saturday.

Officials estimated that between six and eight thousand lined the route of march for the parade which featured seven bands and twenty floats with the Port Ewen Drum Corps awarded first prize as the best musical aggregation. 3 Injured When Car Hits Tree In Port Ewen

Three persons suffered minor injuries early last night when the automobile in which they were riding on the River road, Port Ewen went out of control and struck a tree, according to a report in the Ulster County sheriff's office.

Mrs. Roger Bronskie, 38, of Salem street, Port Ewen, driver of the car, and her husband, also 38, a passenger, were treated at Kingston Hospital and released. A second passenger, Ella Jones, 58, of Salem street, Port Ewen was kept in the hospital over night for observation. Hospital authorities said her condition was good and she was expected to go home today.

According to the sheriff's office, Mrs. Bronskie was traveling west on River road toward route 9W when she pulled to the right to avoid hitting an approaching car. The other car continued on its way without stopping it was reported.

Mrs. Bronskie suffered a bump on the forehead between her eyes and Mr. Bronskie a laceration of the head requiring 16 stitches.

Ulster's 4th

cases of non-paralytic polio among children who had received vaccine were a 7-year-old boy and a 7-year-old girl from Troy, and a 7-year-old girl from Albany.

The department offered this breakdown of new cases by counties:

NASSAU AND Rensselaer, 5 each; Broome and Westchester, 3 each; Albany, 2; Cortland, Erie, Monroe, Oneida, Orange, Suffolk and Wayne, 1 each.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, today made public a letter he had sent to all upstate physicians recommending the use of Salk vaccine during the summer.

Dr. Hilleboe said in part: "I am recommending the use of polio vaccine, because of views of the expert committees . . . in their opinion the preventive benefits are far greater than the possible hazards of paralysis-provoking effects. Doctors should be in a position to inform the parents of the children to be injected of the relative advantages and risks."

Dr. Hilleboe cited a report of expert committees called together by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which stated that the experience in last year's field trials and the use of Salk vaccine so far this year "fails to indicate any evidence" that the vaccine had any so-called provocative effect "either as an increased incidence of paralytic disease or in the localization of paralysis in the injected limb."

Outlook on Polio

New York, July 18 (AP)—The city health commissioner predicts New York city will escape a polio epidemic this year even though the number of cases so far is much larger than in the corresponding period of last year. Dr. Leona Baumgartner said yesterday 107 cases were reported through July 15 this year, compared to 31 cases in the same period last year. However, she added, the statistical pattern is "similar to the pattern of nonepidemic years." The last epidemic year here was 1949 when a total of 2,446 cases developed, most of them in September.

Plea for Mother Will Go to Reds

Stockholm, July 18 (AP)—A self-exiled Soviet physician is on his way to Geneva to ask Soviet Premier Bulganin to allow his 75-year-old half-blind mother to join him in Sweden.

Dr. Nikolai Lebedinoff, 46, said he decided to approach the Soviet leaders in person at Geneva after more than 130 futile attempts to obtain the release of his ailing mother by cables and letters to the Kremlin. Her name is Ludmila P. Korovina.

Last April, when Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was in Stockholm, he handed the Russian diplomat a letter declaring that the Soviet Embassy had asked a price for the release of his mother—that he become a Soviet spy in Sweden.

Gromyko dropped the letter in the street outside the Swedish foreign office.

Since then he has asked assistance from UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, President Eisenhower, and other leaders.

"We're playing follow the leader!"

May Last Two Years

Washington, July 18 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D.-Ala.) predicted today that understandings reached by the Big Four at Geneva may set off a series of lower level East-West conferences that will last two years. Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he is "not looking for any great accomplishments"to come out of President Eisenhower's conversations, beginning today, with the prime ministers of Britain, France and Russia. "I think the Big Four may be able to define a little more clearly the areas of agreement and disagreement," he said. "I am hopeful they will find the means for approaching world problems that will set off a series of second-level meetings over the next two years."

Prison Back to Normal

Rawlins, Wyo., July 18 (AP)—Operations at the Wyoming state penitentiary were back to normal today following a 15-hour riot which ended early yesterday after a face to face meeting between convict spokesmen and Gov. Milward L. Simpson. The governor pledged a full scale investigation of the institution and promised no general reprisal for the insurrection. Simpson also said he would seek to improve prison medical care and food, to increase recreation facilities and time, to cut the maximum for solitary confinement from six months to 30 days and to establish an inmate council.

Boston, July 18 (AP)—Justice Daniel F. Imrie of the Appellate Division, New York State Supreme Court, died early today in New England Baptist Hospital. He was 69. Justice Imrie was admitted to the hosptial last Tuesday after a short illness. He was a resident of Glens Falls. He had been on the Supreme Court, the state's court of original jurisdiction, since 1942, and associate justice in the Appellate Division, Third Department, since 1943. The Appellate Division is the intermediate state court.

Churchmen Not Informed About Their Cardinal

Vienna, Austria, July 18 (AP)—Church officials in Budapest said yesterday they did not know the whereabouts of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

Budapest radio announced Saturday that the life sentence of Hungary's 63-year-old Roman Catholic primate had been "interrupted" at his request and a church building had been placed "at his disposal by the bishops."

It appeared that Cardinal Mindszenty now would undergo the same sort of confinement as that Yugoslav President Tito has decreed for Alojzic Cardinal Stepinac. Since his release from prison in December, 1951, Cardinal Stepinac has been restricted to his native village of Krasic.

BUDAPEST radio said the Communist Hungarian government had ordered Cardinal Mindszenty's temporary release because of his "age and state of health."

Officials at the Budapest diocese, reached by phone yesterday, said, "we do not know where Cardinal Mindszenty is now." From his former official residence near Esztergom the reply was, "the cardinal is not here."

It appeared the Hungarian government might be trying to keep the prelate's whereabouts secret to prevent any pilgrimages by Hungarian Catholics to him.

THE CARDINAL has served six and a half years of a life term. A Communist court convicted him on Feb. 8, 1949, of treason, trying to overthrow the Hungarian Red regime in favor of the Hapsburg monarchy and trading unlawfully in dollars obtained from the Vatican and the United States.

The Cardinal pleaded partly guilty and retracted a letter he had written the previous November in which he had said only a "weakness of the flesh" would ever make him plead guilty.

His trial aroused widespread condemnation outside the Soviet bloc and charges that he had been drugged or tortured to induce him to confess.

THE MODERN DOWRY

Men, it looks as if we're going to have to modify our approach to marriage. Some of the hard economic realities of the 1950's seem to be catching up with us.

Sylvia Porter, an astute economic re-reporter, turned an embarrassing spotlight on these facts in a recent column. If this sort of thing keeps on, there'll be no way out but to get a new script.

Some of us, of course, have always rushed into marriage headlong. But most tend to delay the big step, sometimes for quite a while. And one of our favorite lines, heretofore considered unanswerable, is: "Darling, I can't afford to marry you yet."

Well, now, according to Miss Porter the present day income tax laws are so framed that the girl is on very sound ground if she replies: "You can't afford NOT to marry me."

What she means, naturally, is that tax savings accruing to the married state are so substantial that a fellow who insists on staying single must be judged as having no head at all for business.

Miss Porter doesn't want to run down the romantic side of marriage in the mid-20th century. But she feels compelled to declare that marriage today is also a "magnificent financial deal."

In the first place, the little woman automatically provides you with an extra $600 personal exemption.

More important, when you're married you can file a joint return under which your income is divided between the two marriage partners and taxed separately at lower rates.

If your total joint income is $4000, your yearly saving is $172. If $6000, it's $252. For those who get past $10,000 a year, a wife begins to look almost like a pass from the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Savings in that category come to $600 annually. The chosen few who make $50,000 or more find a wife worth $6,874 in tax savings.

Miss Porter doesn't rest her case with figures like these. She shows what these savings would amount to if capitalized at 6 per cent over a married life of 20 or 30 years. And she details a lot of secondary economies, not the least of which is the fact that you get yourself a free nurse in illness.

In the old days, a bride-to-be was expected to offer her man something in the way of a dowry. But dowries went out of fashion. Today, however, a girl can make a much more convincing case than her grandmother could with talk of dowries. All she needs to do, suggests Miss Porter, is to have a copy of the tax tables handy when the man is wavering. If he has any sense, that should do it.

The fellow who still wants to put marriage off in the face of the compelling economic advantages will not only have to be a bit foolhardy. He'll have to be a pretty imaginative talker to sound even half way convincing.

FAMILY INCENSE

The smoke of incense—a special kind of incense—is rising into the still air in backyards all over the country these summer evenings. This smoke does not come from votive fires honoring some pagan god, but from charcoal grills. The incense is laden with the odor of sizzling hamburgers, wieners, steak—fragrances more satisfying, in the nostrils of a hungry man, than the most exotic scents of Araby.

Grilling food over glowing coals is rapidly becoming a favorite outdoor sport in America. It is done in the humblest of backyards, and in secluded corners of great estates. The grills range from small metal tripods to elaborate stonework affairs with built-in electric spits.

Father generally presides at the grill. This doesn't always make matters easier for Mother, who still has to fetch and tote and have everything else ready.. But backyard meals of this kind are a fine thing, even when the steak gets a little too black on the outside.

THE ANTECEDENTS OF GENEVA

When a nation takes on allies in war, it is difficult to assess the eventual relations among the allies. President Roosevelt was sure that he could charm and hold together his alliance which included Soviet Russia, a nation and government which he never understood. The reasons for his lack of understanding were numerous, but one of them was natural to his own experience and character. A tough pragmatist himself, he could not believe that a government might be guided by an orthodox philosophy of life instead of by flexible methods based upon economic and political advantage.

Whereas he understood Marxism only to mean materialism, which he interpreted in terms of money, the Marxists are guided by a belief in historic inevitability. By materialism, they mean that man is a product of his environment and is adjusted to the scientific development of the tools used for the production of the essential goods needed. Roosevelt's greatest error was to employ Harry Hopkins, a cynical pragmatist, as his intermediary with the Russians. Hopkins believed that all men and even countries could be bought. He therefore tried to prove to Stalin that the United States was sincere by giving the Russians even more than they asked for.

To the Russians, the Roosevelt-Hopkins attitude could only mean that western capitalism had reached that stage in history that was marked by despair, and that decay and disintegration would follow the war. At Teheran, when Roosevelt and Stalin met for the first time, Roosevelt was so conciliatory—perhaps, from a Russian standpoint, obsequious—that Stalin was convinced that his reading of history was correct. Stalin assumed leadership.

It was at Yalta that Stalin determined to hold Europe at the Elbe River and to take the whole of Asia where he expected to encounter no American opposition. He was encouraged to believe that he was right by the vitiation of the Cairo Declaration within a week after Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek signed it.

Had the United States helped Chiang Kai-shek hold China subsequent to the defeat of Japan, Stalin would have been forced to reassess his judgment of the weakness of the United States. But the activities in China of the United States Treasury, under the leadership of Harry Dexter White, and the softness of both the State Department and the military under the leadership of General George Marshall could only prove to Stalin that the United States was incapable of resisting the terrific onslaught of Russian military and propagandistic power.

At Potsdam, in 1945, the Russians agreed to a number of provisions which indicated that they were still probing our strength. Had the Potsdam Agreements been carried out, there would today probably be no satellite countries. Potsdam required "free and unfettered" elections, impartially supervised in the countries liberated from the German conqueror. No such elections were ever held. Instead the Communists took over each one of these countries, and at the head of the government of each of those countries were placed leaders of the Communist Party.

The first indication that the United States was not soft and decadent and that Stalin's reading of history was incorrect was the Berlin Airlift. This costly enterprise showed ingenuity, swiftness of action, capacity for sacrifice, but more than these qualities, it exhibited real strength. But it ushered in that curious historic era, the Cold War, during which the very hot Korean and Indochina Wars were fought and won by the Soviet Universal State.

During this period, roughly from 1946 to 1955, Soviet Russia sought to establish the weakness of the United States by diplomacy, propaganda, infiltration and whatever methods came to hand. In these efforts, Soviet Russia failed. The Marshall Plan, however one may differ about it, has produced an amazing prosperity in Western Europe. The United States itself reached an unbelievable stage of productivity and while plagued by an inflation, nevertheless manages to find full employment for its workers and stands the burden of high and punitive taxes without flinching. The penetration and infiltration activities were exposed and their effectiveness lessened. West Germany was able to stand. NATO has been a success and the Western European Union exists.

Soviet Russia and Red China led us to the brink of war by April of this year and retreated. At that moment, Khrushchev chose to end the Cold War and the Geneva Conference became possible.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

DEATH RATE IN HEART SURGERY

"The records at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, Canada, show that congenital (present at birth) heart disease is the leading cause of death in all age groups. In order to reduce this death rate, more of these patients must be operated upon and for that reason we felt it wise to review our experience and to report our statistics on mortality following surgery."

I am quoting Dr. W. T. Mustard, Toronto, who goes on to say that over the past few years there has been a trend toward life-saving procedures in infancy with a consequent high death rate. "We feel that in the infant any death rate from operation which is less than 100 per cent is justifiable since only those infants who would not live past their second or third year are operated upon." The child who is in heart failure or dying as a result of his heart disease should have surgery offered as it at least gives hope of saving some of these children.

Dr. Mustard outlines several of the complex heart defects existing at birth in children, such as coarctation (contracture or sticking together) of the aorta, the main trunk from the heart. Thirteen infants were opertaed on for this condition with three deaths and one late death. These children were operated on as a life-saving measure and would have died, in the opinion of the heart specialists, without it.

In all, 480 operations were peformed with a total number of deaths amounting to 115. This is a death rate of approximately 25 per cent but we must remember that many of those operated on were in a dying state, so that, really, we should look at it in the light of saving three out of four children otherwise doomed to death because of heart defects present at birth.

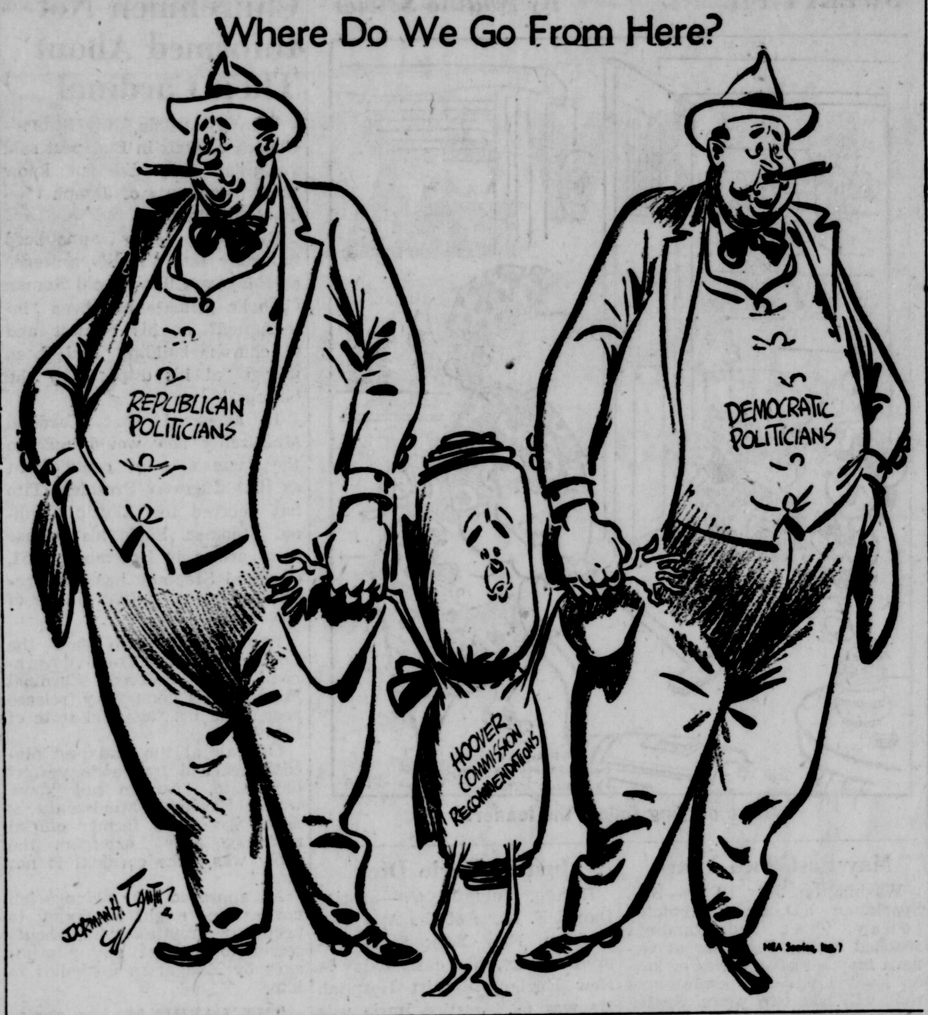

Another interesting point mentioned by Dr. Mustard was the fact that these surgeons had given hypothemia (lowering of the body temperature), about which we were talking yesterday, an extensive trial during heart surgery and felt that the danger in interrupting the circulation during heart operations was considerably lessened by such a measure and that it should be used regularly in such operations. The heart was allowed to stop completely for periods of 3 to 6 minutes while operation was carried out.

It is a terrifying decision for parents to have to make if they have children requiring heart repair at such early ages. However heart surgery is making great strides forward every day and if it is a question of saving the child's life, there is only one choice. No doubt, as time goes on, the death rate in such surgery will become less and less but it is usually not possible to wait for such advances—the child may die unless operation is given him. * * *

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The batting average of the Eisenhower administration on proposals to Congress this year is now only around .260. This is an unofficial calculation made at the end of the first week in July. It is based on a list of 160 separate legislative proposals, requests and recommendations in presidential messages sent to Congress this session.

Out of this list only 42 of the President's proposals—including 10 treaties sent to the Senate for ratification—have so far been approved by Congress.

There are 10 of the President's proposals that have been passed by the House and 11 passed by the Senate, waiting action by the other chamber. And there are 26 White House measures on which hearings have been completed and bills reported out by committees. It is possible that many of these will get floor action before Congress adjourns.

What has pulled the President's batting average down so far is a lack of definte action on some 71 proposals. There are some important measures in this category, not included in the President's own list of 14 measures on which he has expressed a desire for action this year. Among them:

CUSTOMS SIMPLIFICATION and legal authorization for the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) administration. Juvenile delinquency control act. Aid to low income farm families. Reduction of control over Indian affairs. Revision of financing methods for new TVA expansion. Increase in postal rates to balance PO Dept. expenses. Revision of immigration laws. Amendment of laws governing espionage, sabotage, perjury and wiretapping. The President's proposals for liberalizing social security benefits, as distinguished from the House Democrats' own program to liberalize old age insurance benefits.

If the whole record of Congressional work done this session is considered without reference to those recommendations made to Congress in Presidental messages, it shows 131 new laws enacted and signed by the President thus far.

The list includes 16 appropriation bills—with two more to go—which represent a lot of work and time.

Among the important measures passed are: Extension of the draft act and doctors' draft. Raising of the debt limit. Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements law. Closing of tax law loopholes. Raising of pay for government civilian workers, judges and members of Congress themselves.

WHAT BUILDS UP the Congressional record of work done, however, is a large number of tricky-track bills. Among them:

Regulation of fireworks sale in Panama Canal Zone. Authorization of the shipping of live scorpions through the mail. Designation of May 1 as Loyalty Day. Creation of a Fine Arts Commission. Invitation to hold the 1960 Olympic games in Detroit and Squaw Valley, Calif.

If all the resolutions and routine matters are included, the Congressional box score for the year shows over 700 measures passed by the Senate and over 860 passed by the House. These aren't the same measures and action on many of them will never be completed. But all this keeps Congress busy.

Gate of the Buried Treasure

Dana Manighar is the name of the Gate of the Rajah's Fort in the village of Garhdani, district of Khulna, India. Here where the Rajah of Tiyar is believed to have buried a large hoard of treasure centuries ago, only one farmer may plow the soil at a time. It was feared that if two or more were plowing the ground and they stumbled upon the treasure, a sanguinary quarrel about the division would result.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Looking through "The Argus" of Wednesday morning August 2, 1876 I see there was a new firm called "Winne and Winchell" at 32 Wall street adjoining Ulster County Bank. They had an entire new stock of general hardware, nails, iron, cast steel, builders' hardware, vices, locks, hinges, screws, also housekeepers' hardware, table and pocket cutlery, furnishing and harvesting tools, such as plows, horse rakes, shovels, spades, forks, hoes, straw cutters, scythes, etc. They also had a full line of blacksmiths' tools, such as horse shoes, horse nails, files and Fairbanks' counter and platform scales, saddlery hardware. They specialized in blasting powders, fuses, etc. The owners were Levan S. Winne, formerly with Sahler and Reynolds, and A. P. Winchell formerly of Winchell and Newkirk. In their employ was a A. B. Payntar, long and favorably known in the hardware trade. Now looking in the April 11, 1883 "Argus" seven years later I see an adv. reading "A. B. Payntar's Hardware Store" at 32 Wall street and no longer any mention of Winne or Winchell. I have run across the Payntar name often in the late 1880's. I wonder if any of the readers could tell me about the Payntar family, for I think they had a good going harness business on North Front street at the corner of Crown street back in the 1850's. In the 1883 "Argus" they were running a $2,000 sale of harness and wagons.

In the 1876 paper they describe a time the Ulster county constables were having in trying to capture a man charged with stealing sheep in Ellenville. First they caught the wrong man and took him to Orange county where they found they had the wrong man, so they had to take him back to his home and apologize. At Fishkill village they caught the right man, so they handcuffed him and were on their way to the jail house. At one of the stopping places they became engaged in a quarrel with their sheep thief and struck him in the face, whereupon the sympathetic bystanders interfered, and in the excitement the real thief took off. So again they returned home to apologize for letting the thief escape.

One item from Rosendale reads: "Gilbert Hyatt, a cigar maker in Rosendale village is one of the most accomplished musicians in this section. He plays the flutina, guitar, organ and piano, and at the same time imitates the cornet." "High Falls — William H. Frick, formerly principal of our public school is now at college, finishing his education after which he will adopt the medical profession." "Kingston City paragraph — John E. Kraft intends to canvas for a city directory. The last one published by him was an excellent work."

I was asked the other day when Forsyth Park was officially opened to the public. The date is July 28, 1917. It was once known as Joy's Woods. Hasbrouck Park was acquired from the Newark Lime and Cement Co. during Mayor E. J. Dempsey's time. I think in my time we called it McVey's Field. The Board of Public Works accepted Cornell Park on July 28, 1925 from Cornell Estate through Dr. George F. Chandler as mediator.

Today's Look at Geneva

Information Allies Know And Intentions of West

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(This is an analysis based on information derived from sources in Geneva, Washington, London, Paris and Moscow and to some extent reflects confidential data available to the United States government).

WHAT THE U. S. AND ALLIES KNOW:

1. That the Soviet rulers want a new and different relationship with the Western powers.

2. That blustering tactics have been abandoned by the Soviets in favor of a conciliatory approach.

3. That the burden of armament is heavy on the Russians.

4. That Communist China is an expensive ally for the Kremlin, costing Moscow nearly four billion dollars in the last two or three years.

5. That the governmental structure in Moscow, though a dictatorship, is not as clear-cut under the committee system as it was under the one-man rule of Stalin. This has resulted in a cumbersomeness and an uncertainty down the line in executing decisions.

6. That whatever terms are used to describe Russia's internal situation—either weakness due to agricultural difficulties or lack of consumer goods or an overemphasis on heavy goods—the economic setup isn't what might be called healthy. Unless a fundamental change in economic policies is effected, something is going to crack.

7. The satellites are a real headache for the Kremlin. The Soviet turnabout in the policy toward Austria and the craven approach to Tito are part of a new effort to ward off trouble in what have been up to now puppet states.

8. The embargo on the strategic goods sorely needed by Soviet Russia and Red China is pinching. The Communists are desperate for industrial machinery and certain raw materials.

9. Despite the steady development of air power by Russia and an intensified research on atomic weapons, the Soviet military machine is not ready for a world war.

10. A change in military concepts has occurred inside the Russian staff command. The true significance of "massive retaliation" has finally seeped through and has been distorted by the Russian military experts to mean "surprise attack." But whatever the words used, there is a chance of greater destruction of Russian than of American cities in an atomic war. The net result is a Soviet unreadiness to fight a world war now.

11. Russian diplomacy is exerting every effort to make a political issue out of the building of air bases in Europe for the use of American air forces. Efforts by the Soviets to have these bases eliminated and if possible to break up or frustrate the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are definitely part of the Soviet long-range objectives.

WHAT THE U. S. AND ALLIES DON'T KNOW:

(A) The price the Russians are willing to pay for a breathing spell — a truce that might give them needed goods and a relaxation of the tempo of the Western nations in the armament race.

(B) Whether any system of inspection of armament production will be accepted by Moscow that could really permit the Western allies to limit arms.

(C) Whether the entire peace move is a gesture for propaganda purposes and a device to slow down the Western armament program.

(D) Whether a Soviet offer to withdraw troops from Hungary and Bulgaria will impress the world as a true act of peacefulness when actually the commitment to do so is a logical consequence militarily of the liberation of Austria.

(E) Whether "free elections," Russian style, will fool the peoples of the Western world. Separate segments of the Communist party could run as a series of opposition parties and bring about the same end result as if a single party were on the ballot.

(F) Whether another propasal to dissolve the "Cominform" and seemingly abandon international communism will be made just as it was in 1933 when the United States was persuaded to recognize the Moscow government on the strength of such assurances only to find a few months later that they were empty promises. The same thing happened in 1934, and, when it suited the Kremlin, the international apparatus of subversion was again put into operation.

(G) Whether any plan for the reunification of Germany will be brought forth that can really be acceptable to the West.

WHAT U. S. AND ALLIES INTEND TO DO AT GENEVA

1. Keep an open mind. Listen to all proposals objectively, but alertly and cautiously.

2. Watch the propaganda moves and emphasize the Western viewpoint as one of peacefulness and conciliation, so that no charge can be justified that the West entered the meeting with a closed mind or in a truculent mood.

3. Talk peace as loudly and as eloquently, if not more so, than the Russians ever have done.

4. If the Moscow rulers then fail to come through with anything really worth while, the Western governments will be in the position of having explored every opportunity to make an agreement, and the responsibility for the failure will not be placed on the West in the court of public opinion throughout the world.

5. Keep the doors open after the Geneva conference ends so that the Soviets will continue to make offers and be encouraged to submit plans for settlement of outstanding issues.

6. Keep the talking and the peace movement going indefinitely, with more and more conferences in the hope that this at least will deter the start of more of the "little wars" that can add up to a big war. It's not a "peace conference," but a truce conference at Geneva.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Geneva—It is ten years since San Francisco and here we go again, but thus far our new Alger Hiss, if there is one, has not been identified and the situation resembles the final moments before a million dollar fight, with the gladiators in their corners taping their hands and their handlers frankly on guard against lead foil and plaster of Paris.

Geneva is crawling with newspaper and television people. There were fifteen hundred when the gong rang Monday including a very few legitimate reporters with an honest purpose to report information. All speculation is futile except the wistful but futile prayer that some miraculous result will emerge from a congress of mutually suspicious and mutually guilty double-crossers who are now trying to convince German youth that salvation may be won only by a commitment to fight another war. They fought Bolshevism before and we stabbed them in the back.

Twenty years ago in Geneva the League of Nations held a kangaroo court in an ugly edifice called the Palace Wilson after the president who had kept us out of war until he was re-elected. The Fascists were trying to establish squatts on a patch of useless African mountain and desert and authority over a shiftless, diseased, abominable population of savages who practiced slavery and chopped off the hands of thieves. We held aloof from that hypocrisy, with Hugh Gibson gravely "observing" from the end of the coffee bar and Anthony Eden daintily flicking flakes of pastry from his cornsilk mustache. But the Italians literally screamed their indignation and Pierre Laval encouraged them because France had a full supply of deserts and the problems of impulsive wild men. But Britain was guarding her "lifeline" so "sanctions" were voted against Mussolini. Consequently, the second war came in which not Mussolini but Churchill's friend, Roosevelt, destroyed the lifeline and "liquidated" the empire. Laval was lynched for remaining loyal to France rather than Britain.

The Palace Wilson is now a hutch of the Swiss bureaucracy, mildewed and obsolete. The United Nations occupies a grand array of giant crates in a park farther up the road resembling some of those New York expiriments in pie-crust modernism. The so-called summit conference is being held here with the colossal outpouring of the so-called press firmly excluded.

As at Yalta and San Francisco we have been "briefed" for our deception and yours in a permanent stone temple across the Rhone which the Swiss ordinarily use for a polling place and convention hall. It has been transformed for the present purpose of accommodating all this "press" by a superb feat of organization and drive which would be impossible in the United States under union rule.

It is just three weeks since this job began and the result is an astounding coup. There is an amphitheatre seating 750 facing the throne from which the secretaries of delegations may declaim propaganda. Should developments so require there are earphones as at Nurmberg where Russians sat in judgment on their allies and joined us in damning them to the gallows. These phones speak in English, Russian, French, and Spanish. There are chambres noires for the news photographers and television and soundproof booths for many broadcasters, all improvised and done in less time than we would spend negotiating with the carpenters and plumbers. An enormous kitchen for banquets was ironed out by the roots and the rudimentary plumbing converted for the photo-developing gear. This feat was done by Jean-Pierre Grenier, a Swiss professional diplomat, and Rene Keller, who was assigned to be chief of the house of the press. I have seen many such arrangements including San Francisco but none truly comparable in efficiency overlaid here with a sheen of art and beauty.

Jim Hagerty, the President's press secretary who bush-leagued for eight years with Tom Dewey in Albany, has been handling a den of shrewish hyenas from Washington and elsewhere with eclat and poise. All that remains of importance is to ascertain what Ike gives away to Russia this time ten years after he surrendered the victory, retreating 100 miles from the Elbe. Certainly Russia is not going to pull back one hundred miles the other way.

THE MODERN DOWRY

Men, it looks as if we're going to have to modify our approach to marriage. Some of the hard economic realities of the 1950's seem to be catching up with us.

Sylvia Porter, an astute economic rereporter, turned an embarrassing spotlight on these facts in a recent column. If this sort of thing keeps on, there'll be no way out but to get a new script.

Some of us, of course, have always rushed into marriage headlong. But most tend to delay the big step, sometimes for quite a while. And one of our favorite lines, heretofore considered unanswerable, is: "Darling, I can't afford to marry you yet."

He was encouraged to believe that he was right by the vitiation of the Cairo Declaration within a week after Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek signed it.

Had the United States helped Chiang Kai-shek hold China subsequent to the defeat of Japan, Stalin would have been forced to reassess his judgment of the weakness of the United States. But the activities in China of the United States Treasury, under the leadership of Harry Dexter White, and the softness of both the State Department and the military under the leadership of General George Marshall could only prove to Stalin that the United States was incapable of resisting the terrific onslaught of Russian military and propagandistic power.

At Potsdam, in 1945, the Russians agreed to a number of provisions which indicated that they were still probing our strength. Had the Potsdam Agreements been carried out, there would today probably be no satellite countries. Potsdam required "free and unfettered" elections, impartially supervised in the countries liberated from the German conqueror. No such elections were ever held. Instead the Communists took over each one of these countries, and at the head of the government of each of those countries were placed leaders of the Communist Party.

The first indication that the United States was not soft and decadent and that Stalin's reading of history was incorrect was the Berlin Airlift. This costly enterprise showed ingenuity, swiftness of action, capacity for sacrifice, but more than these qualities, it exhibited real strength. But it ushered in that curious historic era, the Cold War, during which the very hot Korean and Indochina Wars were fought and won by the Soviet Universal State.

During this period, roughly from 1946 to 1955, Soviet Russia sought to establish the weakness of the United States by diplomacy, propaganda, infiltration and whatever methods came to hand. In these efforts, Soviet Russia failed. The Marshall Plan, however one may differ about it, has produced an amazing prosperity in Western Europe. The United States itself reached an unbelievable stage of productivity and while plagued by an inflation, nevertheless manages to find full employment for its workers and stands the burden of high and punitive taxes without flinching. The penetration and infiltration activities were exposed and their effectiveness lessened. West Germany was able to stand. NATO has been a success and the Western European Union exists.

Soviet Russia and Red China led us to the brink of war by April of this year and retreated. At that moment, Khrushchev chose to end the Cold War and the Geneva Conference became possible.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

DEATH RATE IN HEART SURGERY

"The records at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, Canada, show that congenital (present at birth) heart disease is the leading cause of death in all age groups. In order to reduce this death rate, more of these patients must be operated upon and for that reason we felt it wise to review our experience and to report our statistics on mortality following surgery."

I am quoting Dr. W. T. Mustard, Toronto, who goes on to say that over the past few years there has been a trend toward life-saving procedures in infancy with a consequent high death rate. "We feel that in the infant any death rate from operation which is less than 100 per cent is justifiable since only those infants who would not live past their second or third year are operated upon." The child who is in heart failure or dying as a result of his heart disease should have surgery offered as it at least gives hope of saving some of these children.

Dr. Mustard outlines several of the complex heart defects existing at birth in children, such as coarctation (contracture or sticking together) of the aorta, the main trunk from the heart. Thirteen infants were opertaed on for this condition with three deaths and one late death. These children were operated on as a life-saving measure and would have died, in the opinion of the heart specialists, without it.

In all, 480 operations were peformed with a total number of deaths amounting to 115. This is a death rate of approximately 25 per cent but we must remember that many of those operated on were in a dying state, so that, really, we should look at it in the light of saving three out of four children otherwise doomed to death because of heart defects present at birth.

Another interesting point mentioned by Dr. Mustard was the fact that these surgeons had given hypothemia (lowering of the body temperature), about which we were talking yesterday, an extensive trial during heart surgery and felt that the danger in interrupting the circulation during heart operations was considerably lessened by such a measure and that it should be used regularly in such operations. The heart was allowed to stop completely for periods of 3 to 6 minutes while operation was carried out.

It is a terrifying decision for parents to have to make if they have children requiring heart repair at such early ages. However heart surgery is making great strides forward every day and if it is a question of saving the child's life, there is only one choice. No doubt, as time goes on, the death rate in such surgery will become less and less but it is usually not possible to wait for such advances—the child may die unless operation is given him. • • •

Where Do We Go From Here?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The batting average of the Eisenhower administration on proposals to Congress this year is now only around .260. This is an unofficial calculation made at the end of the first week in July. It is based on a list of 160 separate legislative proposals, requests and recommendations in presidential messages sent to Congress this session.

Out of this list only 42 of the President's proposals—including 10 treaties sent to the Senate for ratification—have so far been approved by Congress.

There are 10 of the President's proposals that have been passed by the House and 11 passed by the Senate, waiting action by the other chamber. And there are 26 White House measures on which hearings have been completed and bills reported out by committees. It is possible that many of these will get floor action before Congress adjourns.

What has pulled the President's batting average down so far is a lack of definte action on some 71 proposals. There are some important measures in this category, not included in the President's own list of 14 measures on which he has expressed a desire for action this year. Among them:

CUSTOMS SIMPLIFICATION and legal authorization for the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) administration. Juvenile delinquency control act. Aid to low income farm families. Reduction of control over Indian affairs. Revision of financing methods for new TVA expansion. Increase in postal rates to balance PO Dept. expenses. Revision of immigration laws. Amendment of laws governing espionage, sabotage, perjury and wiretapping. The President's proposals for liberalizing social security benefits, as distinguished from the House Democrats' own program to liberalize old age insurance benefits.

If the whole record of Congressional work done this session is considered without reference to those recommendations made to Congress in Presidental messages, it shows 131 new laws enacted and signed by the President thus far.

The list includes 16 appropriation bills—with two more to go—which represent a lot of work and time.

Among the important measures passed are: Extension of the draft act and doctors' draft. Raising of the debt limit. Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements law. Closing of tax law loopholes. Raising of pay for government civilian workers, judges and members of Congress themselves.

WHAT BUILDS UP the Congressional record of work done, however, is a large number of tricky-track bills. Among them:

Regulation of fireworks sale in Panama Canal Zone. Authorization of the shipping of live scorpions through the mail. Designation of May 1 as Loyalty Day. Creation of a Fine Arts Commission. Invitation to hold the 1960 Olympic games in Detroit and Squaw Valley, Calif.

If all the resolutions and routine matters are included, the Congressional box score for the year shows over 700 measures passed by the Senate and over 860 passed by the House. These aren't the same measures and action on many of them will never be completed. But all this keeps Congress busy.

Gate of the Buried Treasure

Dana Manighar is the name of the Gate of the Rajah's Fort in the village of Garhdani, district of Khulna, India. Here where the Rajah of Tiyar is believed to have buried a large hoard of treasure centuries ago, only one farmer may plow the soil at a time. It was feared that if two or more were plowing the ground and they stumbled upon the treasure, a sanguinary quarrel about the division would result.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Looking through "The Argus" of Wednesday morning August 2, 1876 I see there was a new firm called "Winne and Winchell" at 32 Wall street adjoining Ulster County Bank. They had an entire new stock of general hardware, nails, iron, cast steel, builders' hardware, vices, locks, hinges, screws, also housekeepers' hardware, table and pocket cutlery, furnishing and harvesting tools, such as plows, horse rakes, shovels, spades, forks, hoes, straw cutters, scythes, etc. They also had a full line of blacksmiths' tools, such as horse shoes, horse nails, files and Fairbanks' counter and platform scales, saddlery hardware. They specialized in blasting powders, fuses, etc. The owners were Levan S. Winne, formerly with Sahler and Reynolds, and A. P. Winchell formerly of Winchell and Newkirk. In their employ was a A. B. Payntar, long and favorably known in the hardware trade. Now looking in the April 11, 1883 "Argus" seven years later I see an adv. reading "A. B. Payntar's Hardware Store" at 32 Wall street and no longer any mention of Winne or Winchell. I have run across the Payntar name often in the late 1880's. I wonder if any of the readers could tell me about the Payntar family, for I think they had a good going harness business on North Front street at the corner of Crown street back in the 1850's. In the 1883 "Argus" they were running a $2,000 sale of harness and wagons.

In the 1876 paper they describe a time the Ulster county constables were having in trying to capture a man charged with stealing sheep in Ellenville. First they caught the wrong man and took him to Orange county where they found they had the wrong man, so they had to take him back to his home and apologize. At Fishkill village they caught the right man, so they handcuffed him and were on their way to the jail house. At one of the stopping places they became engaged in a quarrel with their sheep thief and struck him in the face, whereupon the sympathetic bystanders interfered, and in the excitement the real thief took off. So again they returned home to apologize for letting the thief escape.

One item from Rosendale reads: "Gilbert Hyatt, a cigar maker in Rosendale village is one of the most accomplished musicians in this section. He plays the flutina, guitar, organ and piano, and at the same time imitates the cornet." "High Falls — William H. Frick, formerly principal of our public school is now at college, finishing his education after which he will adopt the medical profession." "Kingston City paragraph — John E. Kraft intends to canvas for a city directory. The last one published by him was an excellent work."

I was asked the other day when Forsyth Park was officially opened to the public. The date is July 28, 1917. It was once known as Joy's Woods. Hasbrouck Park was acquired from the Newark Lime and Cement Co. during Mayor E. J. Dempsey's time. I think in my time we called it McVey's Field. The Board of Public Works accepted Cornell Park on July 28, 1925 from Cornell Estate through Dr. George F. Chandler as mediator.

Today's Look at Geneva

Information Allies Know And Intentions of West

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(This is an analysis based on information derived from sources in Geneva, Washington, London, Paris and Moscow and to some extent reflects confidential data available to the United States government).

WHAT THE U. S. AND ALLIES KNOW:

1. That the Soviet rulers want a new and different relationship with the Western powers.

2. That blustering tactics have been abandoned by the Soviets in favor of a conciliatory approach.

3. That the burden of armament is heavy on the Russians.

4. That Communist China is an expensive ally for the Kremlin, costing Moscow nearly four billion dollars in the last two or three years.

5. That the governmental structure in Moscow, though a dictatorship, is not as clear-cut under the committee system as it was under the one-man rule of Stalin. This has resulted in a cumbersomeness and an uncertainty down the line in executing decisions.

6. That whatever terms are used to describe Russia's internal situation—either weakness due to agricultural difficulties or lack of consumer goods or an overemphasis on heavy goods—the economic setup isn't what might be called healthy. Unless a fundamental change in economic policies is effected, something is going to crack.

7. The satellites are a real headache for the Kremlin. The Soviet turnabout in the policy toward Austria and the craven approach to Tito are part of a new effort to ward off trouble in what have been up to now puppet states.

8. The embargo on the strategic goods sorely needed by Soviet Russia and Red China is pinching. The Communists are desperate for industrial machinery and certain raw materials.

9. Despite the steady development of air power by Russia and an intensified research on atomic weapons, the Soviet military machine is not ready for a world war.

10. A change in military concepts has occurred inside the Russian staff command. The true significance of "massive retaliation" has finally seeped through and has been distorted by the Russian military experts to mean "surprise attack." But whatever the words used, there is a chance of greater destruction of Russian than of American cities in an atomic war. The net result is a Soviet unreadiness to fight a world war now.

11. Russian diplomacy is exerting every effort to make a political issue out of the building of air bases in Europe for the use of American air forces. Efforts by the Soviets to have these bases eliminated and if possible to break up or frustrate the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are definitely part of the Soviet long-range objectives.

WHAT THE U. S. AND ALLIES DON'T KNOW:

(A) The price the Russians are willing to pay for a breathing spell — a truce that might give them needed goods and a relaxation of the tempo of the Western nations in the armament race.

(B) Whether any system of inspection of armament production will be accepted by Moscow that could really permit the Western allies to limit arms.

(C) Whether the entire peace move is a gesture for propaganda purposes and a device to slow down the Western armament program.

(D) Whether a Soviet offer to withdraw troops from Hungary and Bulgaria will impress the world as a true act of peacefulness when actually the commitment to do so is a logical consequence militarily of the liberation of Austria.

(E) Whether "free elections," Russian style, will fool the peoples of the Western world. Separate segments of the Communist party could run as a series of opposition parties and bring about the same end result as if a single party were on the ballot.

(F) Whether another propasal to dissolve the "Cominform" and seemingly abandon international communism will be made just as it was in 1933 when the United States was persuaded to recognize the Moscow government on the strength of such assurances only to find a few months later that they were empty promises. The same thing happened in 1934, and, when it suited the Kremlin, the international apparatus of subversion was again put into operation.

(G) Whether any plan for the reunification of Germany will be brought forth that can really be acceptable to the West.

WHAT U. S. AND ALLIES INTEND TO DO AT GENEVA

1. Keep an open mind. Listen to all proposals objectively, but alertly and cautiously.

2. Watch the propaganda moves and emphasize the Western viewpoint as one of peacefulness and conciliation, so that no charge can be justified that the West entered the meeting with a closed mind or in a truculent mood.

3. Talk peace as loudly and as eloquently, if not more so, than the Russians ever have done.

4. If the Moscow rulers then fail to come through with anything really worth while, the Western governments will be in the position of having explored every opportunity to make an agreement, and the responsibility for the failure will not be placed on the West in the court of public opinion throughout the world.

5. Keep the doors open after the Geneva conference ends so that the Soviets will continue to make offers and be encouraged to submit plans for settlement of outstanding issues.

6. Keep the talking and the peace movement going indefinitely, with more and more conferences in the hope that this at least will deter the start of more of the "little wars" that can add up to a big war. It's not a "peace conference," but a truce conference at Geneva.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Geneva—It is ten years since San Francisco and here we go again, but thus far our new Alger Hiss, if there is one, has not been identified and the situation resembles the final moments before a million dollar fight, with the gladiators in their corners taping their hands and their handlers frankly on guard against lead foil and plaster of Paris.

Geneva is crawling with newspaper and television people. There were fifteen hundred when the gong rang Monday including a very few legitimate reporters with an honest purpose to report information. All speculation is futile except the wistful but futile prayer that some miraculous result will emerge from a congress of mutually suspicious and mutually guilty double-crossers who are now trying to convince German youth that salvation may be won only by a commitment to fight another war. They fought Bolshevism before and we stabbed them in the back.

Twenty years ago in Geneva the League of Nations held a kangaroo court in an ugly edifice called the Palace Wilson after the president who had kept us out of war until he was re-elected. The Fascists were trying to establish squatts on a patch of useless African mountain and desert and authority over a shiftless, diseased, abominable population of savages who practiced slavery and chopped off the hands of thieves. We held aloof from that hypocrisy, with Hugh Gibson gravely "observing" from the end of the coffee bar and Anthony Eden daintily flicking flakes of pastry from his corn-silk mustache. But the Italians literally screamed their indignation and Pierre Laval encouraged them because France had a full supply of deserts and the problems of impulsive wild men. But Britain was guarding her "lifeline" so "sanctions" were voted against Mussolini. Consequently, the second war came in which not Mussolini but Churchill's friend, Roosevelt, destroyed the lifeline and "liquidated" the empire. Laval was lynched for remaining loyal to France rather than Britain.

The Palace Wilson is now a hutch of the Swiss bureaucracy, mildewed and obsolete. The United Nations occupies a grand array of giant crates in a park farther up the road resembling some of those New York expiriments in pie-crust modernism. The so-called summit conference is being held here with the colossal outpouring of the so-called press firmly excluded.

As at Yalta and San Francisco we have been "briefed" for our deception and yours in a permanent stone temple across the Rhone which the Swiss ordinarily use for a polling place and convention hall. It has been transformed for the present purpose of accommodating all this "press" by a superb feat of organization and drive which would be impossible in the United States under union rule.

It is just three weeks since this job began and the result is an astounding coup. There is an amphitheatre seating 750 facing the throne from which the secretaries of delegations may declaim propaganda. Should developments so require there are earphones as at Nurmberg where Russians sat in judgment on their allies and joined us in damning them to the gallows. These phones speak in English, Russian, French, and Spanish. There are chambres noires for the news photographers and television and soundproof booths for many broadcasters, all improvised and done in less time than we would spend negotiating with the carpenters and plumbers. An enormous kitchen for banquets was ironed out by the roots and the rudimentary plumbing converted for the photo-developing gear. This feat was done by Jean-Pierre Grenier, a Swiss professional diplomat, and Rene Keller, who was assigned to be chief of the house of the press. I have seen many such arrangements including San Francisco but none truly comparable in efficiency overlaid here with a sheen of art and beauty.

Jim Hagerty, the President's press secretary who bush-leagued for eight years with Tom Dewey in Albany, has been handling a den of shrewish hyenas from Washington and elsewhere with eclat and poise. All that remains of importance is to ascertain what Ike gives away to Russia this time ten years after he surrendered the victory, retreating 100 miles from the Elbe. Certainly Russia is not going to pull back one hundred miles the other way.

The Country Boarders

By FRANK TRIPP

From reading the ads for vacationers one can whip up a lusty wanderlust. He also can stir up memories of some rare experiences while in search of back woods relaxation.

Who hasn't gone somewhere on a hunch or on somebody's say-so and wished himself back at good old B'way & 42nd, or whatever the four-corners is called in your town? City folks get an idea that they can go country in one lesson.

It's more modern now, but recouping in the country once amounted to buying into the biography of Daniel Boone.

You've got to get way back into the sticks today to escape the fashions an[illegible] which are supposed to be no part of a real rural holiday.

When the average country hired girl gets dolled up she's a wow. After taking the dishes out of an electric dish washer she looks like she stepped out of a Fifth Avenue salon.

UP IN YOUR ROOM, the wash bowl and pitcher are gone. So is the commode which hid a very useful one-handled piece of nocturnal crockery.

The scenery from the back stoop has changed too. Where the Chic Sale stood there's a septic tank—and the Sears Roebuck catalogue now is part of the front porch library. Its frayed pages bespeak wide readership.

You yawn, join the rocking chair fleet, and lament how convenient and boring everything is. No Indians in the bushes, no yokels riding up on mules, no chickens on the porch or pigs in the front yard.

In fact very little to complain about. And that's what you went there for—that and to tell the "rubes" how excitingly you live back home.

WELL, MRS. S., there ain't no rubes any more—unless it's those who go looking for them.

Though he now operates nearer like Mr. Statler, the old-homestead boniface, Uncle Henry, is still true to form.

If you're a repeat guest, you'll knowingly remark, "Uncle Henry hasn't changed a bit; still the same dear old simpleton."

Truth is Uncle Henry is simple—like a fox. He knows more about customer golf than all the vice presidents in the land. He knows that he's got to let you startle him pink with your tall yarns about life in a great city.

And he'll patiently bide his time with just now and then a "my, my!" or "mercy me!"—until it's his turn.

His inning will be ingeniously maneuvered to come just as you are standing in front of an antique chest of drawers. He'll be sort of stroking it or wiping it affectionately with his handkerchief—and be talking about something else.

UNCLE HENRY remembers that last year you toted home a hundred-year-old firewood box—that he just got finished the week before you came.

To see how the land lies—if it still lies as well as he does—he has asked about the box and told how Aunt Susan scolded him like sixty for selling it.

That's when you remark, "What a beautiful chest!"

"Yes 'tis," says Uncle Henry, "but you can't wheedle me out o' that. It come from the old Humphrey place. Must be a 150 to 200 years old. You could never talk Aunt Susan into parting with that." Then he hustles off.

THE NEXT TEN days develop into a contest between you and Mrs. Depuyster Anstruther to see who buys the chest. You never liked her anyway and you've made up your mind she won't get the antique. Uncle Henry stays neutral.

You win out. But not until you and the Anstruther woman have bid the chest up to where Uncle Henry could "induce" Aunt Susan to let him sell it.

Poor Aunt Susan is heartbroken and you feel guilty about it. You like Aunt Susan and you comfort her by saying that somewhere she can find another.

Which is just as true as your name is Mrs. Sucker.

Another will come in the day after you leave.

Politician Takes Over

Las Vegas, Nev., July 18 (AP)—A politician has replaced Wally Cox, television's Mr. Peepers, as as the headliner on the Dunes Hotel floor show. But Sam Irwin, a Nevada state assemblyman, says he isn't talking politics. He used to be a comedian himself—until he retired in favor of the Assembly and a job as an executive of the Sahara Hotel. Cox was fired last week after only three shows of what was to have been a four-week, $11,000 weekly stint. Al Gottesman, hotel vice president, said Cox laid an egg.

Drink Up Auto

Springfield, Ill. (AP) — Eldon Smith was sentenced to one to two years after he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny of a motor vehicle. He took his nephew's car to Terre Haute, Ind., where he proceeded to drink away his means of transportation. Asst. State's Attorney J. Waldo Ackerman Jr., said Smith first sold the car radio and spent the proceeds for drinks. Drink by drink he sold the battery, the tires and finally the radiator.

To see how the land lies—if it still lies as well as he does—he has asked about the box and told how Aunt Susan scolded him like sixty for selling it.

That's when you remark, "What a beautiful chest!"

"Yes 'tis," says Uncle Henry, "but you can't wheedle me out o' that. It come from the old Humphrey place. Must be a 150 to 200 years old. You could never talk Aunt Susan into parting with that." Then he hustles off.

THE NEXT TEN days develop into a contest between you and Mrs. Depuyster Anstruther to see who buys the chest. You never liked her anyway and you've made up your mind she won't get the antique. Uncle Henry stays neutral.

You win out. But not until you and the Anstruther woman have bid the chest up to where Uncle Henry could "induce" Aunt Susan to let him sell it.

Poor Aunt Susan is heartbroken and you feel guilty about it. You like Aunt Susan and you comfort her by saying that somewhere she can find another.

Which is just as true as your name is Mrs. Sucker.

Another will come in the day after you leave.

Politician Takes Over

Las Vegas, Nev., July 18 (AP)—A politician has replaced Wally Cox, television's Mr. Peepers, as the headliner on the Dunes Hotel floor show. But Sam Irwin, a Nevada state assemblyman, says he isn't talking politics. He used to be a comedian himself—until he retired in favor of the Assembly and a job as an executive of the Sahara Hotel. Cox was fired last week after only three shows of what was to have been a four-week, $11,000 weekly stint. Al Gottesman, hotel vice president, said Cox laid an egg.

Drink Up Auto

Springfield, Ill. (AP) — Eldon Smith was sentenced to one to two years after he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny of a motor vehicle. He took his nephew's car to Terre Haute, Ind., where he proceeded to drink away his means of transportation. Asst. State's Attorney J. Waldo Ackerman Jr., said Smith first sold the car radio and spent the proceeds for drinks. Drink by drink he sold the battery, the tires and finally the radiator.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Neighbor, labor's demand is a balloon ride for business and its employes — and the consumer pays the freight. That's the monopoly of labor. They now claim 16,000,000 dues-paying members, demanding the guaranteed annual wage, shorter hours, fringe benefits — including pay when not producing. All this pinpoints more inflation. Then—bingo!

Mr. Futton

Mr. Reuther has stated, "the more money in the pockets of workers, the greater the purchasing power." But what goes into their pockets must come out of other pockets. Whose?

The Department of Commerce claims 63,000,000 employes. The labor combine — or is it a cartel?—has about 16,000,000 employes paying dues. The rest — 47,000,000— are free workers. Money is transferred from 47,000,000 pockets into 16,000,000 pockets.

But is the majority going to buckle to the minority? How come the minority have such power? The answer is: The "check-off"—and the union shop—put over by the Dealers.

These labor demands are not impossible—at a price! Business could say: "O.K, boys, anything for peace. We can grant your fringe benefits, less working hours, the guaranteed annual wage, —but, here's what we must do, or close shop and get the heck out of business—put the wage increase on all products manufactured, and then — Guaranteed Consumer Buying,—G.C.B. When you have G.C.B., the G.A.W.—Guaranteed Annual Wage —might work. Not until then.

That's the price of the balloon ride, neighbor? Give us G.C.B.!

Stress Swimming At Y Day Camp

The YMCA Day Camp at DeWitt Lake started off its fourth week with another banner week on registration. Lou Schafer, Day Camp director announced over 150 applications for this mid-season week.

Besides the regular program this week there are the mid-season championships in swimming and diving and in running and jumping. These two sport events will take place mid-week depending on the weather. Should the weather continue warm and clear on Tuesday, then the water sports will be staged, leaving Wednesday or Thursday for the track and field events. All first, second and third place winners in all events will receive their special blue, red and white satin ribbons with gold letters stating the event and the insignia of the camp. Many campers who have attended camp over the past three or four years and more have stated that they still have all their ribbons for the various years of camp competition. Some campers have them displayed on a homemade felt panel, showing the various ribbons, as well as their different swimming emblems and special Day Camp awards.

All swimming badges just arrived from the YMCA National Office for the minnows, fish and flying fish groups. These badges will be awarded this week during the luncheon and noon-day rest period. Mr. Schafer and his assistant Bill Irland have just about 40 boys and girls that have been taught to swim this summer, most of them having passed their 75 foot swim. Others will accomplish this special feat this week. All new campers that cannot swim will be placed in a beginners group and taught along with the rest.

Some of the older boys and girls have swum the length of the lake and returned. They will also receive their special award in the form of a diploma.

Schafer and Irland have given practically two swimming instruction periods over to camp program because of the exceptionally warm weather. But it is paying off because many youngsters are learning to swim fast. The two "Y" instructors anticipate that more campers will pass their first 75 foot swim this year than in any other previous year.

The competitive program at the "Y" camp has been held down to a minimum because of the weather. The camp directors feel that the children should not be exposed too much in the hot sun by being on the athletic and play field. More quiet games are provided in the cool Pine grove and the shade of the large oak trees. The noon-day rest hour and story period has been very popular and here again the two camp directors keep their respective campers quiet and in a resting position through the dinner hour until about 1:30.

Mr. Schafer stated this morning: "Should registrations continue and all eight weeks filled to capacity, this year's Day Camp will excell all others in attendance."

New campers this week are: In the lower camp, Andrew S. Keane, Robert Simrany, Bruce Hilton, Louanne Doolittle, William Kilquist, Allen Carney, Richard Emerick, Donald Schryver, Timothy Schiff, Karen Keeley, Charles Goldfarb & Henry Marcus.

New campers attending the Upper Camp are: Peter Minasian, James and Robert Saxe, Eric Broberg, Corinne Evory, Joseph Metscher, David O'Neil, Lonnie McAndrews, Rosalyn Marcus, Mary Ann & Edward Hofbauer, Betty Ann Locke and Joey Rost.

Speculative enthusiasm is high in America. Furthermore, it is being fanned by a contagious psychology generated in board rooms of stock exchange firms.

Recently I visited a score of brokerage offices in cities of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. All were filled. Many were crowded. Signs read: "These chairs are reserved for customers." The atmosphere of several offices reminded me of the Yankee Stadium when Cleveland or Chicago is in town for a crucial double-header.

I talked with many of the denizens of these offices and was told in no uncertain terms that the Dow-Jones industrial averages are going to 500. Well, if that belief becomes widespread enough, they will go there.

Others assured me that the steel wage increase would intensify the inflation and this in turn would prevent profit-taking in stocks and even induce further stock buying.

I asked several people what they thought of 70 per cent margins. The best answer came from an elderly man now in retirement. Said he: "Margins mean little in this kind of market. The investors have the cash to pay for everything."

It is a dizzy market, for it is fortified by economic forces unknown in 1927, 1928, and 1929. Can the Dow-Jones industrial averages hit 500? Sure, they can go to 600, in my opinion.

INFLATION IS hard to stop. Higher costs hit the automobile companies. Then they descend on the steel enterprises. Trouble is developing in the copper industry. Higher costs will eventually envelop economic America. This sets the stage for a speculative stock market boom. And thousands of people with millions of dollars goaded on by the turn of events sit in brokerage offices and watch stock prices advance.

An abundance of money coupled with the will to speculate is a perfect setting for higher Dow-Jones averages. A year ago in this column I said I thought America was in a period like 1927-1928-1929 and the speculative boom would last a year. I was too conservative.

Prognosticating the future course of stock prices is a dangerous business. But looking at the oceans of money available for speculation, the will of the people to do so, and the inflationary trends of the times, I feel that stock averages could advance 100 points more easily than they could go down 50.

The average investor should not get caught up in the present speculative contagion. A mania for quick and easy profits in the stock market arises in such times as these. Let the speculators speculate. But most people should remember that thrift, saving and investment constitute the base of their economic life.

DON'T:

(1) Withdraw money from savings banks to purchase securities for quick profits.

(2) Stop making systematic savings banks deposits.

(3) Take profits in good stocks that are doing nothing price-wise to buy junk that may advance.

Paterson, N. J. (AP) — Sunday school teacher Ethel Gillespie told her Eastside Terrace Methodist Church pupils to draw pictures giving their impression of King David of Israel. Six of the youngsters turned in sketches with a coonskin capped David.

Hog Wins, Then Loses

Landrum, S. C. (AP)—Sawmiller Albert Nodine and four other men were cutting timber when they found the fresh tracks of an unusually large wild hog. Previously warned of the hog's bad temper and size by the landowner, they retired for their guns. When they cornered the 520-pound porker in dense honeysuckles, Nodine poked it with his gun barrel to rouse it into better shooting position. The hog turned and charged, racing between Nodine's legs and upsetting him. His gun discharged and the rest of the party converged and fired away. A load of buckshot struck the hog and also Nodine's foot. Nodine's injuries were more serious than those of the white and black Hampshire. He had to be hospitalized. Later, the party returned to the woods, tracked down the hog and felled it with six direct hits. The ham was cured for Nodine.

Busy Bees

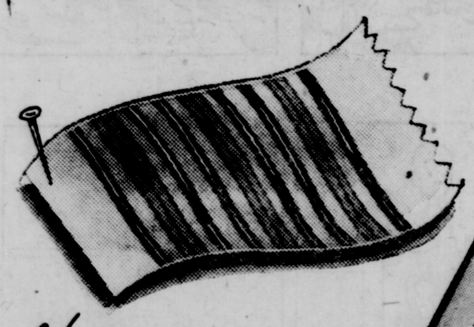

Port Huron, Mich. (AP)—A swarm of bees lit at a busy intersection, diving on pedestrians and swarming into cars before surprised motorists rolled up windows. Their queen took a liking to a traffic light. The swarm followed. Soon nobody could tell whether the light was green or red and there was a traffic jam. Then the bees left for the Elks' Temple and someone called a cop. He called the dog warden. He called conservation officers. They all passed. Then a wise guy dragged a no parking sign near them, but they didn't bite. Henry Johnson drove up, plucked the queen bee into hive and the rest followed.

DIZZY MARKET

Speculative enthusiasm is high in America. Furthermore, it is being fanned by a contagious psychology generated in board rooms of stock exchange firms.

Recently I visited a score of brokerage offices in cities of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. All were filled. Many were crowded. Signs read: "These chairs are reserved for customers." The atmosphere of several offices reminded me of the Yankee Stadium when Cleveland or Chicago is in town for a crucial double-header.

I talked with many of the denizens of these offices and was told in no uncertain terms that the Dow-Jones industrial averages are going to 500. Well, if that belief becomes widespread enough, they will go there.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

HEALTH FOR ALL

HOW LONG WILL IT KEEP?

July weather brings up the perennial housekeeping problem of the over-stuffed refrigerator. Cool drinks are in demand; fresh vegetables are coming in from the garden every day. What foods must be refrigerated to prevent spoilage?

Left-over cooked foods, especially meat and poultry, must be refrigerated as quickly as possible to prevent development of the bacteria known as staphylococci. These are the little fellows that cause food poisoning. Putting hot foods right into the refrigerator won't hurt the food, but it may raise the temperature in an already overloaded refrigerator too high. Place the containers of hot foods in cool water before refrigerating to speed cooling. Don't leave them outside more than an hour.

Other excellent mediums for development of staphylococci are sandwiches made with mayonnaise, soup stocks, and gravies. Four hours outside the refrigerator is the limit of safety. How long they may be held depends on many factors. The safest rule is to use them up within a few days.

Fresh meat keeps in the refrigerator somewhat better than cooked meat. Chopped meat should be frozen or cooked immediately. The life of fresh meat can be prolonged by cooking just before it "turns." This kills the bacteria in the fresh product, so you start off with a "new" food. Vegetable shortenings and salad oil should be refrigerated if they are to be kept for more than a few weeks.

Fresh vegetables are best, of course, if they are eaten within a few hours of picking. High temperatures speed the enzymatic change from sugar to starch—the reason why city folk never know the real flavor of corn on the cob and new peas. If these vegetables must be held before cooking, refrigerate corn in its husks and peas in their pods.

To get the most from your refrigerator these hot days, be sure you aren't wasting space on unopened bottles and cans or useless little dabs of left-overs. Don't open the refrigerator door unnecessarily. And be sure to defrost when a half inch of frost has accumulated on the freezing unit.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by Ulster County TB and Health Association, 74 John street.

Opening lead—♥ K

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If you played today's hand at five diamonds, you'd be delighted with a spade opening lead. That would put you in the dummy immediately for a trump lead; and later on you could get back to dummy with a trump to begin on the clubs.

But West isn't obliging enough to lead a spade. What do you do when West opens the king of hearts?

The normal play is to win with the ace of hearts and return a heart towards dummy's jack. This wouldn't work in today's hand, because West would take the queen of hearts and continue the suit, allowing East to ruff. The defenders would get two trump tricks and a heart, defeating the contract.

A better solution was found in one case when the hand was dealt in a recent tournament at Stamford, Conn. The declarer was Sol Rubinow, one of the country's best chess players, who is bound to make his mark in bridge as well. Rubinow casually dropped the five of hearts at the first trick instead of winning with the ace.

West assumed that his partner had the ace, since South would normally take the trick if he could. Hence West continued with a low heart at the second trick.

This was just what Rubinow had been hoping for. He won the second trick in dummy with the jack of hearts, cashed the ace of spades in order to discard the ace of hearts as a safety measure, and led the jack of diamonds from dummy.

There was now no way for the defenders to beat the contract. East could take his ace of diamonds, but South could later draw trumps with the king of diamonds, enter dummy with a trump, and take the club finesse.

Opening lead—♥ K

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If you played today's hand at five diamonds, you'd be delighted with a spade opening lead. That would put you in the dummy immediately for a trump lead; and later on you could get back to dummy with a trump to begin on the clubs.

But West isn't obliging enough to lead a spade. What do you do when West opens the king of hearts?

The normal play is to win with the ace of hearts and return a heart towards dummy's jack. This wouldn't work in today's hand, because West would take the queen of hearts and continue the suit, allowing East to ruff. The defenders would get two trump tricks and a heart, defeating the contract.

A better solution was found in one case when the hand was dealt in a recent tournament at Stamford, Conn. The declarer was Sol Rubinow, one of the country's best chess players, who is bound to make his mark in bridge as well. Rubinow casually dropped the five of hearts at the first trick instead of winning with the ace.

West assumed that his partner had the ace, since South would normally take the trick if he could. Hence West continued with a low heart at the second trick.

This was just what Rubinow had been hoping for. He won the second trick in dummy with the jack of hearts, cashed the ace of spades in order to discard the ace of hearts as a safety measure, and led the jack of diamonds from dummy.

There was now no way for the defenders to beat the contract. East could take his ace of diamonds, but South could later draw trumps with the king of diamonds, enter dummy with a trump, and take the club finesse.

HEALTH FOR ALL

HOW LONG WILL IT KEEP?

July weather brings up the perennial housekeeping problem of the over-stuffed refrigerator. Cool drinks are in demand; fresh vegetables are coming in from the garden every day. What foods must be refrigerated to prevent spoilage?

Left-over cooked foods, especially meat and poultry, must be refrigerated as quickly as possible to prevent development of the bacteria known as staphylococci. These are the little fellows that cause food poisoning. Putting hot foods right into the refrigerator won't hurt the food, but it may raise the temperature in an already overloaded refrigerator too high. Place the containers of hot foods in cool water before refrigerating to speed cooling. Don't leave them outside more than an hour.

Other excellent mediums for development of staphylococci are sandwiches made with mayonnaise, soup stocks, and gravies. Four hours outside the refrigerator is the limit of safety. How long they may be held depends on many factors. The safest rule is to use them up within a few days.

Fresh meat keeps in the refrigerator somewhat better than cooked meat. Chopped meat should be frozen or cooked immediately. The life of fresh meat can be prolonged by cooking just before it "turns." This kills the bacteria in the fresh product, so you start off with a "new" food. Vegetable shortenings and salad oil should be refrigerated if they are to be kept for more than a few weeks.

Fresh vegetables are best, of course, if they are eaten within a few hours of picking. High temperatures speed the enzymatic change from sugar to starch—the reason why city folk never know the real flavor of corn on the cob and new peas. If these vegetables must be held before cooking, refrigerate corn in its husks and peas in their pods.

To get the most from your refrigerator these hot days, be sure you aren't wasting space on unopened bottles and cans or useless little dabs of left-overs. Don't open the refrigerator door unnecessarily. And be sure to defrost when a half inch of frost has accumulated on the freezing unit.

GIFT FOR BOY FRIEND

An eighteen-year-old girl writes: "My boy friend is nineteen. We have been going together for a year now and his birthday is coming up next month. I want to buy him a shirt and tie, but my mother disapproves of this type of gift. Many of my friends have given gifts of this sort to their boy friends and their parents did not seem to disapprove. I think my mother is very-old fashioned. Isn't such a present acceptable today."

The tie is perfectly all right but not the shirt. It would be better to give him two ties instead of a tie and a shirt.

Material Unimportant

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is going to be married this summer. The dress she has chosen is white embroidered nylon tulle with short sleeves. I am going to be married in October and would like to wear this same dress at my wedding. A friend of mine tells me that this material can only be worn during the summer months and would be out of place at a fall wedding. Your opinion will be greatly appreciated.

Answer: The white tulle dress is very suitable. The only objection is the bare arms. Either you will have to have long gloves come up to the sleeves or sleeves put in to come down to meet your gloves.

Candy and Flowers

Dear Mrs. Post: So many of my friends are of the opinion that whenever they are invited to someone's house for dinner it is necessary to take either candy or flowers to the hostess. Is that proper or not?

Answer: It would hardly be improper; but at the same time, it is done very seldom and certainly not required by etiquette. If one goes to the same house often and has little chance to return the hospitality, it would be a natural impulse, occasionally to take a gift.

Long Beach, Calif., July 18 (AP)—It's a day of fun before the serious competitions as the 77 contestants in the Miss Universe beauty contest visit a motion picture studio.

Yesterday they paraded before an estimated crowd of 500,000 and tomorrow the judging starts in preliminaries of the Miss United States section. Finals for Miss U. S. will be held Wednesday and the winner will then compete against the foreign glamor girls. Miss Universe will be named Friday night.

The girls, clad in bathing suits, stood atop four-wheel floats yesterday and waved to a crowd which police estimated was the largest to see a Miss Universe parade.

Last year's Miss Universe, Miss Miriam Stevenson of Winnsboro, S. C., led the march of floats and 15 bands.

Sailors walked behind the floats, pushing them. The sailors were selected from nearby Los Alamitos Naval Air Station and although it was a three-mile push, there were more applicants than jobs.

Mother With Polio Hypnotized for Birth of Child

Dallas, Tex., July 18 (AP)—A team of doctors, balked by polio from giving drugs, turned to hypnotism during the weekend to deliver a lusty-lunged son to a pretty, 32-year-old mother.

Brunette Mrs. Edward J. Schwartz arrived at Parkland Memorial Hospital last Tuesday with spinal type polio. Her legs and breathing muscles were paralyzed. She was expecting a child in less than five weeks.

To complicate her condition, Michael Edward Schwartz—as his name turned out to be—was pressing against his mother's chest area and further hampering her breathing. Doctors devided Michael had better get out of the way.

THEY COULDN'T give Mrs. Schwartz a general anesthetic because that would slow her breathing further. The polio germs were in the spine, so they hesitated to give a spinal anesthetic.

They called in a staff psychologist from Southwestern Medical School.

The doctor team kept vigil 48 hours to make certain everything was ready. Present at various times were the psychologist, obstetrician, pediatrician, resident doctors, internes, and nurses.

At 2:30 p. m Saturday they began their dramatic and novel procedure. Mrs. Schwartz already had a slit in her throat for a tube with which to force oxygen to her lungs because the upper breathing passages might become clogged. Drugs to start labor were given and the psychologist hypnotized her to relieve pain.

SIX HOURS later, while doctors and nurses worked anxiously, she gave birth to Michael, 6 pounds.

The mother's breathing improved "almost amazingly," doctors said. She was returned to an iron lung, however.

Mrs. Schwartz told her husband it was her most painless childbirth. They have three other boys.

The father is a traveling jewelry salesman.

Physicians said they believed it was the first birth by a polio patient while hypnotized. They said hypnotism "is not applicable to general use in obstetrical cases and was used here because of the unusual circumstances surrounding the delivery."

GIFT FOR BOY FRIEND

An eighteen-year-old girl writes: "My boy friend is nineteen. We have been going together for a year now and his birthday is coming up next month. I want to buy him a shirt and tie, but my mother disapproves of this type of gift. Many of my friends have given gifts of this sort to their boy friends and their parents did not seem to disapprove. I think my mother is very-old fashioned. Isn't such a present acceptable today."

The tie is perfectly all right but not the shirt. It would be better to give him two ties instead of a tie and a shirt.

Material Unimportant

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is going to be married this summer. The dress she has chosen is white embroidered nylon tulle with short sleeves. I am going to be married in October and would like to wear this same dress at my wedding. A friend of mine tells me that this material can only be worn during the summer months and would be out of place at a fall wedding. Your opinion will be greatly appreciated.

Answer: The white tulle dress is very suitable. The only objection is the bare arms. Either you will have to have long gloves come up to the sleeves or sleeves put in to come down to meet your gloves.

Candy and Flowers

Dear Mrs. Post: So many of my friends are of the opinion that whenever they are invited to someone's house for dinner it is necessary to take either candy or flowers to the hostess. Is that proper or not?

Answer: It would hardly be improper; but at the same time, it is done very seldom and certainly not required by etiquette. If one goes to the same house often and has little chance to return the hospitality, it would be a natural impulse, occasionally to take a gift.

The Mature Parent

We Can't Assume Our Child Enjoys Being Humiliated

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

A siren in Hal's high school class is making him a very unhappy boy.

She uses him shamelessly. She breaks dates without explanation. She makes peremptory telephone calls to come pick her up with his father's family car from wherever she happens to be. Mrs. P. has overheard her poke fun at him before his friends. He's broody and irritable. Someone has told his mother that he's a "masochist."

She wants to know what one is—and what she can do about it.

"Masochist" is a psychologist's term. As I am not a psychologist, I prefer not to use it.

But we can feel through to Hal's problem without it.

To be attracted to this girl, he must share something in common with her, mustn't he?

What is it? What is it that attracts him to a person who by abusing his affection demonstrates that she despises it? Who by scorning the hurts she deals him, demonstrates that his hurts are unimportant to her? Who, by keeping him in a state of chronic irritation, proves she has no respect for his anger?

What is it he shares in common with her?

Scorn for his affection. Contempt for his hurts. Disrespect for his anger.

That is Hal's problem.

Now, psychologists tell us that there are people who enjoy being hurt by others. I don't believe this: I can understand a sick imagination telling us that we enjoy it—but true joy in hurt? No, it's just not true.

So if I were Hal's mother, I would have no patience with the idea that he enjoys humiliation—and would stand by the truth that he hates it.

I should seize every chance to voice it. Whenever I saw him, wounded and miserable after exposing himself to cruelty, I should say quietly, "You don't like this. You are very angry. You do not enjoy being made ashamed and helpless, but resent it. We all do."

And would trust this repeated truth to work out its instructive solution.

Somerset Maugham's novel "Of Human Bondage" is a classic story of a man who despised his own anger. But he only adored the woman of his infatuation because she despised it, too. She was a source of morbid delight to him only because she didn't dare know how furiously he resented her. If someone had just had the courage to say, "Boy, you do not love—you hate," who knows how this truth would have affected his bondage?

Yes, I think it is parents' moral duty to operate on the assumption that our children do not like being disparaged.

Route 20 Club Says Troopers Hurt Business

West Winfield, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—The president of the Route 20 Assn. says the state police are hurting tourist trade by the number of arrests they are making on the highway.

Lawrence Van Atta, president of the merchants' group, argued Saturday that the troopers should issue more warnings and make fewer arrests for traffic violations.

Capt. Charles A. Lawson, commander of State Police Troop C at Sidney, which patrols a section of the highway, declined to comment on Van Atta's remarks.

THE ROUTE 20 ASSN. was formed recently by businessmen seeking to regain business they lost when traffic shifted to the State Thruway. The Thruway is parallel to Route 20.

Van Atta said members of his organization would confer soon with officials of Troop C. A spokesman for Lawson said he had no plans to confer with Van Atta or any members of the association.

put out the sea of gasoline fumes within three minutes, saving many of the 43 persons aboard. The plane carried 40 passengers and a crew of 3.

SEVERAL PASSENGERS died after reaching nearby hospitals. Of the remaining injured, only two were listed as in critical condition early today.

The crash was the second fatal mishap of a Braniff Airways plane in 25 years. The first was Aug. 22, 1954, when 12 persons were killed.

Coroner McCarron said he learned one of the engines of the plane caught fire during a refueling stop at Wichita, Kan., en route to Chicago. He told newsmen:

"Reports of the engine fire at Wichita and the obvious fact that the plane should have been re-routed because of the field weather conditions . . . shows that the people concerned were far too much interested in timetables. The plane should never have attempted the landing."

HOWEVER, the Braniff district manager at Wichita said no fire had been called to his attention and "I've been here all day." He said it could have been a motor backfiring and spurting flames.

The Civil Aeronautics Board said it will hold a public hearing in Chicago after all investigations are completed and the evidence is ready for analysis.

At that time, the Pilots' Association's investigating engineers also will present their conclusions as to the cause of the crash.

The passengers on the doomed plane included many college students on their way home after air force reserve training at bases in Texas. There also were six navy reservists on their way to Norfolk, Va., for summer training.

THE VICTIMS included:

Lawrence H. Norton, 48, of Washington, who had supervised farm development programs in some 53 countries under the foreign aid program. His title was assistant director of the food and agriculture office of the National Cooperation Administration.

The pilot, Capt. Allen Tobin, 43, of Dallas, an airline pilot for 15 years, and the stewardess, Miss Mary Teel, 23, of Camden, Ark., co-pilot O. W. Hanks, a native of Des Moines, was seriously injured.

Two football players, Chester A. Wynne Jr., of Oak Park, Ill., a senior at Notre Dame whose father was one of the seven mules of four horsemen fame; and Troy K. Lindsey, 23, of Midwest City, Okla., an all-Oklahoma conference guard who was to have reported to the Chicago Cardinals training camp.

Peace Path

same token, we are ready to take account of legitimate security interests of the Soviet Union. The Paris agreements contain many provisions which serve this purpose. But we are quite ready to consider further reciprocal safeguards which are reasonable and practical and compatible with the security of all concerned.

AS WE THINK of this problem of armament, we need to remember that the present burden of costly armaments not only deprives our own people of higher living standards, but it also denies the peoples of underdeveloped areas of resources which would improve their lot. These areas contain much of the world's population and many nations now emerging for the first time into political independence. They are grappling with the urgent problem of economic growth. Normally they receive assistance particularly for capital development from the more developed nations of the world. However, that normal process is gravely retarded by the fact that the more developed industrial countries are dedicating so much of their productive effort to armament. Armament reduction would and should insure that part of the savings would flow into the less developed areas of the world to assist their economic development.

In addition, we must press forward in developing the use of atomic energy for constructive purposes. We regret that the Soviet Union has never accepted our proposal of December 1953 that nations possessing stockpiles of fissionable material should join to contribute to a "world bank" so, as in steadily increasing measures, to substitute cooperation in human welfare for competition in means of human destruction. We still believe that if the Soviet Union would according to its ability contribute to this great project that act would improve the international climate.

ON A BROADER plane, there is the problem of respecting the right of peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live: And of restoring sovereign rights and self-government to those who have been deprived of them. The American people feel strongly that certain peoples of eastern Europe, many with a long and proud record of national existence, have not yet been given the benefit of this pledge of our United Nations wartime declaration, reinforced by other wartime agreements.

There is the problem of communication and human contacts as among our peoples. We frankly fear the consequences of a situation where whole peoples are isolated from the outside world. The American people want to be friends with the Soviet peoples. There are no natural differences between our peoples or our nations. There are artificial barriers such as now interfere with communication. It is time that all curtains whether of guns or laws or regulations should begin to come down. But this can only be done in an atmosphere of mutual respect and confidence.

There is the problem of international communism. For 38 years now, its activities have disturbed relations between other nations and the Soviet Union. Its activities are not confined to efforts to persuade. It seeks throughout the world to subvert lawful governments and to subject nations to an alien domination. We cannot ignore the distrust created by the support of such activities. In my nation and elsewhere it adds to distrust and therefore to international tension.

Bowles Resigns Post As Leader of Whites

Milford, Del., July 18 (AP)—Bryant Bowles resigned his position as president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People yesterday, citing lack of interest in the pro-segregation organization he helped found.

"I am resigning because of lack of interest," Bowles told a crowd estimated at between 250 and 300 at the nearby Harrington Airport. "I don't feel like helping people who don't try to help themselves."

Bowles' organization received national attention last fall when he led a successful fight to prevent integration of Negro pupils at all white schools here. The NAAWP subsequently was incorporated in Delaware with headquarters here.

Bowles indicated he would return to his home in Florida.

The Delaware Board of Education has been ordered to submit plans for integration of students by Aug. 15, following U. S. Supreme Court rulings overthrowing school segregation.

Mohawk Airlines Asking Extensions

Ithaca, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—Mohawk Airlines will ask the Civil Aeronautics Authority this week for route extensions to Montreal and several northern New York communities.

John R. Carver, vice president, said Saturday the airline would seek these extensions:

Plattsburgh and Saranac Lake-Lake Placid to Utica-Rome, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo.

Massena and Ogdensburg to Watertown, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo.

Montreal to Massena.

Montreal to Plattsburgh.

Mohawk now serves 30 communities on three routes from Buffalo to Boston, Buffalo to New York city and Watertown to New York. It previously had asked the board for permission to give service between Syracuse and Pittsburgh.

Fuller Firm

Camden, South Carolina for the manufacture of children's wear.

Increased demands have now made it necessary to negotiate for the opening of a second plant in the south at Chester, South Carolina, where men's and boy's dress and sport shirts will be manufactured.

Fuller pointed out that the additional facilities in the south were made necessary by the increased demand for the company's products and said the new plant will "supplement the Kingston plant to meet the increased sales."

THE HEADQUARTERS of the Fuller company and its main manufacturing plant will remain in Kingston and the expansion program in the south will in no way affect the local operations. Both Fuller and Rowland pointed out that additional help was required here and experienced help was being sought at this time at the Kingston plant.

"We would like to expand our operations here in Kingston if experienced help was available," said Fuller. "We have the facilities and could handle an additional 100 experienced operators here to meet present demands," he continued.

Supplementing the Kingston operations at the new plants in South Carolina will meet some of the increased demand but Fuller said operations at the local plant was also desirous.

Interceptor Car To Catch Speeders

Los Angeles, July 18 (AP)—If you think you can outrun the cops on the Los Angeles freeways, don't try it.

You'll lose, unless your car can do well over 100 miles an hour.

The speeder's nemesis is a new police freeway interceptor car. It can accelerate from a standstill to 60 MPH in 9 seconds. It will do 45 in low, 85 in second and well over 100 in high, developing 188 horsepower.

The interceptor carries such extra equipment as a heavy padded board for use in pushing wreckage off traffic lanes, an oversize fire extinguisher, a safety belt for the driver, and tripod racks to hold flares high so they can be seen on hills and curves.

The speedwagons, he warned, look just like any other patrol car.

The Mature Parent

We Can't Assume Our Child Enjoys Being Humiliated

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

A siren in Hal's high school class is making him a very unhappy boy.

She uses him shamelessly. She breaks dates without explanation. She makes peremptory telephone calls to come pick her up with his father's family car from wherever she happens to be. Mrs. P. has overheard her poke fun at him before his friends. He's broody and irritable. Someone has told his mother that he's a "masochist."

She wants to know what one is—and what she can do about it.

"Masochist" is a psychologist's term. As I am not a psychologist, I prefer not to use it.

But we can feel through to Hal's problem without it.

To be attracted to this girl, he must share something in common with her, mustn't he?

What is it? What is it that attracts him to a person who by abusing his affection demonstrates that she despises it? Who by scorning the hurts she deals him, demonstrates that his hurts are unimportant to her? Who, by keeping him in a state of chronic irritation, proves she has no respect for his anger?

What is it he shares in common with her?

Scorn for his affection. Contempt for his hurts. Disrespect for his anger.

That is Hal's problem.

Now, psychologists tell us that there are people who enjoy being hurt by others. I don't believe this: I can understand a sick imagination telling us that we enjoy it—but true joy in hurt? No, it's just not true.

So if I were Hal's mother, I would have no patience with the idea that he enjoys humiliation—and would stand by the truth that he hates it.

I should seize every chance to voice it. Whenever I saw him, wounded and miserable after exposing himself to cruelty, I should say quietly, "You don't like this. You are very angry. You do not enjoy being made ashamed and helpless, but resent it. We all do."

And would trust this repeated truth to work out its instructive solution.

Somerset Maugham's novel "Of Human Bondage" is a classic story of a man who despised his own anger. But he only adored the woman of his infatuation because she despised it, too. She was a source of morbid delight to him only because she didn't dare know how furiously he resented her. If someone had just had the courage to say, "Boy, you do not love—you hate," who knows how this truth would have affected his bondage?

Yes, I think it is parents' moral duty to operate on the assumption that our children do not like being disparaged.

Route 20 Club Says Troopers Hurt Business

West Winfield, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—The president of the Route 20 Assn. says the state police are hurting tourist trade by the number of arrests they are making on the highway.

Lawrence Van Atta, president of the merchants' group, argued Saturday that the troopers should issue more warnings and make fewer arrests for traffic violations.

Capt. Charles A. Lawson, commander of State Police Troop C at Sidney, which patrols a section of the highway, declined to comment on Van Atta's remarks.

THE ROUTE 20 ASSN. was formed recently by businessmen seeking to regain business they lost when traffic shifted to the State Thruway. The Thruway is parallel to Route 20.

Van Atta said members of his organization would confer soon with officials of Troop C. A spokesman for Lawson said he had no plans to confer with Van Atta or any members of the association.

22 Die, 21 Hurt

put out the sea of gasoline fumes within three minutes, saving many of the 43 persons aboard. The plane carried 40 passengers and a crew of 3.

SEVERAL PASSENGERS died after reaching nearby hospitals. Of the remaining injured, only two were listed as in critical condition early today.

The crash was the second fatal mishap of a Braniff Airways plane in 25 years. The first was Aug. 22, 1954, when 12 persons were killed.

Coroner McCarron said he learned one of the engines of the plane caught fire during a refueling stop at Wichita, Kan., en route to Chicago. He told newsmen:

"Reports of the engine fire at Wichita and the obvious fact that the plane should have been re-routed because of the field weather conditions . . . shows that the people concerned were far too much interested in timetables. The plane should never have attempted the landing."

HOWEVER, the Braniff district manager at Wichita said no fire had been called to his attention and "I've been here all day." He said it could have been a motor backfiring and spurting flames.

The Civil Aeronautics Board said it will hold a public hearing in Chicago after all investigations are completed and the evidence is ready for analysis.

At that time, the Pilots' Association's investigating engineers also will present their conclusions as to the cause of the crash.

The passengers on the doomed plane included many college students on their way home after air force reserve training at bases in Texas. There also were six navy reservists on their way to Norfolk, Va., for summer training.

THE VICTIMS included:

Lawrence H. Norton, 48, of Washington, who had supervised farm development programs in some 53 countries under the foreign aid program. His title was assistant director of the food and agriculture office of the National Cooperation Administration.

The pilot, Capt. Allen Tobin, 43, of Dallas, an airline pilot for 15 years, and the stewardess, Miss Mary Teel, 23, of Camden, Ark., co-pilot O. W. Hanks, a native of Des Moines, was seriously injured.

Two football players, Chester A. Wynne Jr., of Oak Park, Ill., a senior at Notre Dame whose father was one of the seven mules of four horsemen fame; and Troy K. Lindsey, 23, of Midwest City, Okla., an all-Oklahoma conference guard who was to have reported to the Chicago Cardinals training camp.

Lead is 11.34 times as heavy as water.

Peace Path

same token, we are ready to take account of legitimate security interests of the Soviet Union. The Paris agreements contain many provisions which serve this purpose. But we are quite ready to consider further reciprocal safeguards which are reasonable and practical and compatible with the security of all concerned.

AS WE THINK of this problem of armament, we need to remember that the present burden of costly armaments not only deprives our own people of higher living standards, but it also denies the peoples of underdeveloped areas of resources which would improve their lot. These areas contain much of the world's population and many nations now emerging for the first time into political independence. They are grappling with the urgent problem of economic growth. Normally they receive assistance particularly for capital development from the more developed nations of the world. However, that normal process is gravely retarded by the fact that the more developed industrial countries are dedicating so much of their productive effort to armament. Armament reduction would and should insure that part of the savings would flow into the less developed areas of the world to assist their economic development.

In addition, we must press forward in developing the use of atomic energy for constructive purposes. We regret that the Soviet Union has never accepted our proposal of December 1953 that nations possessing stockpiles of fissionable material should join to contribute to a "world bank" so, as in steadily increasing measures, to substitute cooperation in human welfare for competition in means of human destruction. We still believe that if the Soviet Union would according to its ability contribute to this great project that act would improve the international climate.

ON A BROADER plane, there is the problem of respecting the right of peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live: And of restoring sovereign rights and self-government to those who have been deprived of them. The American people feel strongly that certain peoples of eastern Europe, many with a long and proud record of national existence, have not yet been given the benefit of this pledge of our United Nations wartime declaration, reinforced by other wartime agreements.

There is the problem of communication and human contacts as among our peoples. We frankly fear the consequences of a situation where whole peoples are isolated from the outside world. The American people want to be friends with the Soviet peoples. There are no natural differences between our peoples or our nations. There are artificial barriers such as now interfere with communication. It is time that all curtains whether of guns or laws or regulations should begin to come down. But this can only be done in an atmosphere of mutual respect and confidence.

There is the problem of international communism. For 38 years now, its activities have disturbed relations between other nations and the Soviet Union. Its activities are not confined to efforts to persuade. It seeks throughout the world to subvert lawful governments and to subject nations to an alien domination. We cannot ignore the distrust created by the support of such activities. In my nation and elsewhere it adds to distrust and therefore to international tension.

Colonials Surprise League Leading Mohawks, 9-2, For First Win

Maines Stops New York Squad With Nine Hits

Locals Cash In On Timely Hits

NY-NJ League

Paterson	4	1
Poughkeepsie	5	2
New York Mohawks	4	2
Newburgh Jewels	3	4
Kingston Colonials	1	4
Brooklyn Windsors	1	5

The city slickers got quite a surprise Saturday night at Dietz Stadium.

The pace setting New York Mohawks swaggered on the field against the winless Colonials and several hours later trooped quietly to their dressing rooms after absorbing a surprise 9-2 pasting at the hands of Manager Fred Davi's tossers.

BOB MAINES scattered nine hits effectively and fanned six to win Kingston's first decision in the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League in five starts.

Kingston was outhit, 9 to 7, but the New York pitchers couldn't find the plate and were virtually obscene with bases on balls and wild pitches. They issued 12 free passes and a half dozen wild pitches and passed balls.

Maines gave up single tallies in the first and seventh, both as the result of triples.

The Colonials tied the score 1-1 in the fourth and then moved ahead to stay with a couple of runs in the fifth. Joe Modica and Bob Shelightner singled, Ed Passante doubled and Stan Lewis uncorked a wild pitch.

MIKE RIENZO tripled home two runs during Kingston's six-run rally in the sixth. The only other hit was Modica's single. The visiting pitchers did the rest with a flock of walks and wild pitches.

THE SCOREBOARD

By JACK HAND
(The Associated Press)

With the Chicago White Sox hitting a go-go pace of seven straight victories to move within 1½ games of the New York Yankees, it's time to tip the hat to Dick Donovan.

The 27-year-old "rookie," who flunked so many early tests, leads the American League pitchers in winning percentage with a dazzling 12-2 record.

They used to call Donovan a "spring training wonder." He was a hot shot in Florida but a flop in the north. In the exhibition games he was a new phenom. When the season opened he couldn't get anybody out.

TIMES HAVE changed for the big Irishman from Quincy, Mass. He hasn't lost since May 27 and owns four shutouts. His latest job yesterday was to nail down the second game decision over Baltimore in relief.

The combination of Chicago's double victory over Baltimore 3-2 and 5-4 and the Yanks' third straight defeat (9 out of 13) by Detroit, 6-5, halved New York's lead. As the Sox and Yanks meet Tuesday night at Comiskey Park in the opener of a three-game series, Chicago has a chance to take over first place by Thursday.

Cleveland and Boston each picked up a half game on New York by splitting a pair. Tom Brewer's three-hitter gave the Red Sox the 6-0 opener and the Indians took the second 6-5 despite a three-run rally by Boston in the ninth. Cleveland is three games back and the Red Sox six.

WASHINGTON'S Spec Shea, making his first start of the year, came up with a three-hit shutout to beat Kansas City's Vic Raschi 4-0 in a battle of veterans.

While the American League rejoiced (all but the Yanks) at the tightening of the race, the National could see little hope of a Brooklyn collapse.

The Dodgers, hurting for pitching with a flock of injuries, dipped into the minor league stockpile to come up with a pair of first-time winners in rookies Roger Craig and Don Bessent. Craig, just promoted from Montreal with a 10-2 record, curbed Cincinnati's sluggers with three hits 6-2. Bessent, up from St. Paul with an 8-5 mark failed to survive a rough ninth inning but he also won his first big league start 8-5.

Milwaukee swept a doubleheader from the New York Giants 8-7 on two homers by Joe Adcock and one by Del Crandall and 3-1 on tight defense behind Chet Nichols, pitching. However, they remained 12½ games behind Brooklyn.

THE OLD Pennsylvania Sunday curfew messed up doubleheaders in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh as usual. The Phillies topped Chicago 12-11 in 10 innings on Bobby Morgan's sacrifice fly but the second game was suspended with Chicago leading 5-4 in the sixth. They'll finish it tonight before their regularly scheduled game. Ernie Banks hit two homers, one with the bases loaded, his third, to boost his season total to 26. The major league record for grand slams is four held by 10 players.

Rip Repulski hit two homers and batted in four runs for St. Louis in the 9-8 first game victory over Pittsburgh in 12 innings. Luis Arroyo, who lost to Lino Donoso Saturday, was the winner and Donoso the loser, both in relief. St. Louis led the second game 1-0 after 7½ innings when curfew struck.

The White Sox winning streak, their longest of the year, was kept alive by Walt Dropo's 12th home run, breaking a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning of the second game. Lefty Billy Pierce checked the Orioles with four hits in the opener on a two-run single by Nellie Fox.

EARL TORGESON stole home with the "big" run of the Tigers' triumph over the Yanks, dashing in from third while Bob Turley wound up in the 10th inning. Torgy singled and rode home on Ray Boone's homer in the eighth to pull Detroit up even with the Yanks.

Brewer's first game job for Boston was a real gem. He didn't allow a hit until Ralph Kiner popped a single into short left center in the seventh. In the second game, Bob Lemon finally choked off the Red Sox rally by retiring Billy Klaus on a grounder to second base.

The only hits off Shea were singles by Cletus Boyer in the sixth, Vic Power in the seventh and pinchhitter Harry Simpson in the ninth.

BASEBALL writers were scouring the record books to see if they could dig up anything like the Dodgers' feat of winning with two first-time starters on the same day.

The two 24-year-old righthanders were just moved to the varsity Friday because of a series of injuries to other staff members. Craig was in Newport News, Va., in Class B, last season. Bessent, bailed out by Ed Roebuck in the ninth inning of a 90-plus afternoon, toiled in St. Paul last summer.

The Giants thought they had the first game all wrapped up until Hank Thompson made a bad throw after fielding Andy Pafko's grounder. Adcock's three-run homer and Crandall's blast were enough to tip the scale despite six runs batted in by West Westrum, the Giants' catcher.

Baker-Layne Bout Heads Boxing Calendar for Week

By MURRAY ROSE
(The Associated Press)

Big Bob Baker, the second ranking heavyweight contender, risks a possible title shot tonight when he takes on Pudgy Rex Layne in the Utah heavyweight's home grounds.

The two collide in a return 10-rounder at West Jordan, Utah. Baker has won nine straight, including a 10-round decision over Layne at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena, and is in line for a February title scrap if heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano whips Archie Moore, Sept. 20.

Layne, once a topflight contender himself, is ranked ninth now. He had an unbeaten string of eight snapped by Baker. An upset victory could move the ex-GI from Lewiston, Utah, right back into the picture.

PAT LOWRY, an ex-marine from Toledo with a crowd-pleasing style, meets Sugar Al Wilson of Englewood, N. J., in a televised 10-rounder (Dumont-TV, 9 p. m., EST) at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Hector Constance, Trinidad welterweight who is unbeaten in five U. S. fights, takes on Ramon Fuentes, fourth-ranking 147-pounder contender in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night (ABC-TV, radio, 9 p. m., EST). Constance is rated seventh in the division.

Sugar Ray Robinson reaches the "do or die" phase of his comeback campaign on Friday night when he faces speedy Rocky Castellani in a 10-rounder in the San Francisco Cow Palace, (NBC-TV, radio, 9 p. m. EST).

THEN AND NOW—Robert Moses Grove, 55, police commissioner and councilman of his native Lonaconing, Md., reminisces about the 31 games he won for the Athletics in 1931. Lefty Grave has seven other American League seasons in which he won 20 or more victories, six with the A's and another with the Red Sox.

Gus Schrowang Aces Third Hole At Twaalfskill

Gus Schrowang, the golfing architect, became the first man ever to ace Twaalfskill's rugged No. 3 hole on Saturday.

Schrowang scored the hole-in-one with a No. 3 wood shot from the lower tee. He was playing a twosome with his son, Gus Jr., when he bagged the dream shot.

The ball landed on the green below the cup and trickled in.

Predict First Four-Heat Race In Hambletonian

The first four-heat Hambletonian stake since 1934 appears likely Aug. 3 when the 30th racing of the $100,000 sulky derby is set at Good Time Park, Goshen.

It's anybody's guess who the winner will be among the four evenly-matched, top-rated colts.

One of the favorites is Galophone, who, with several race wins already behind him, looks as tough to beat in the Hambletonian as does the spring book favorite, Scott Frost.

Scott Frost, Galophone and Childs Hanover needed four heats to decide the Historic-Dickerson Cup last week in Goshen. This race is the leading "dress rehearsal" for the Hambletonian. Each of the horses won a heat, necessitating a fourth scramble which Scott Frost won after Galophone retired.

Another omen of Galophone's potential is the fact that son of Bill Gallon, 1941 Hambletonian winner, copped the Tompkins Memorial the day before the 1954 Hambletonian. This frequently points straight to victory one season later.

The fourth favorite is Something Special, Stanley Dancer's mount, who has already won at Roosevelt Raceway.

None of the owners or drivers of these four has had a Hambletonian winner before.

Among the filly favorites are Arvilla Hanover, already a winner for owner Billy Haughton, who also train and pilots Galophone; Miss Rodney, and Satinwood. Helicopter, who won in 1953, was the last filly to take the Hambletonian.

Bill Cane's annual Grand Circuit meeting, worth more than $200,000 in purses, opens at Good Time Park on Aug. 1. The meet lasts five days, with 556 trotters and pacers eligible for competition. Eixty-eight are eligible for the Hambletonian.

The city slickers got quite a surprise Saturday night at Dietz Stadium.

The pace setting New York Mohawks swaggered on the field against the winless Colonials and several hours later trooped quietly to their dressing rooms after absorbing a surprise 9-2 pasting at the hands of Manager Fred Davi's tossers.

BOB MAINES scattered nine hits effectively and fanned six to win Kingston's first decision in the New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League in five starts.

Kingston was outhit, 9 to 7, but the New York pitchers couldn't find the plate and were virtually obscene with bases on balls and wild pitches. They issued 12 free passes and a half dozen wild pitches and passed balls.

Maines gave up single tallies in the first and seventh, both as the result of triples.

The Colonials tied the score 1-1 in the fourth and then moved ahead to stay with a couple of runs in the fifth. Joe Modica and Bob Shelightner singled, Ed Passante doubled and Stan Lewis uncorked a wild pitch.

MIKE RIENZO tripled home two runs during Kingston's six-run rally in the sixth. The only other hit was Modica's single. The visiting pitchers did the rest with a flock of walks and wild pitches.

Passante and Modica belted a couple of hits each for the Colonials. The visitors were led by DePasio, Whitcomb and Colavito with two each.

The Giants thought they had the first game all wrapped up until Hank Thompson made a bad throw after fielding Andy Pafko's grounder. Adcock's three-run homer and Crandall's blast were enough to tip the scale despite six runs batted in by West Westrum, the Giants' catcher.

Baker-Layne Bout Heads Boxing Calendar for Week

By MURRAY ROSE
(The Associated Press)

Big Bob Baker, the second ranking heavyweight contender, risks a possible title shot tonight when he takes on Pudgy Rex Layne in the Utah heavyweight's home grounds.

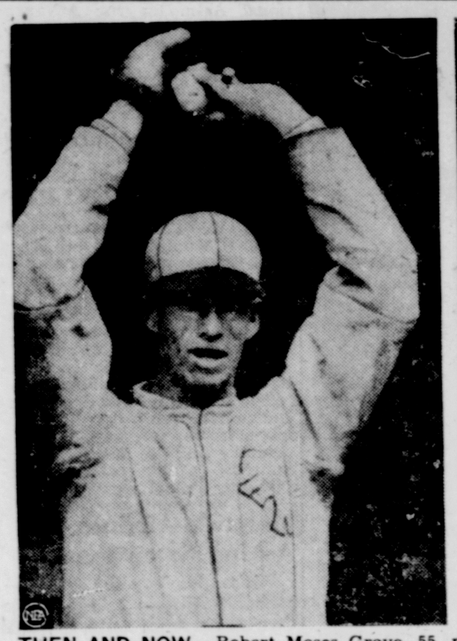

The two collide in a return 10-rounder at West Jordan, Utah. Baker has won nine straight, including a 10-round decision over Layne at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena, and is in line for a February title scrap if heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano whips Archie Moore, Sept. 20.

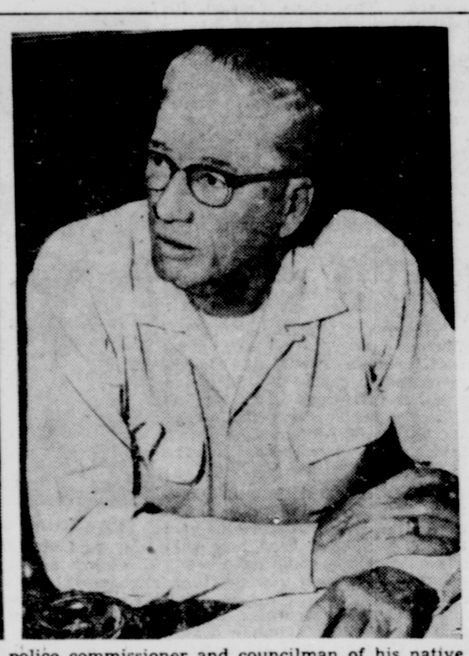

Layne, once a topflight contender himself, is ranked ninth now. He had an unbeaten string of eight snapped by Baker. An upset victory could move the ex-GI from Lewiston, Utah, right back into the picture.

PAT LOWRY, an ex-marine from Toledo with a crowd-pleasing style, meets Sugar Al Wilson of Englewood, N. J., in a televised 10-rounder (Dumont-TV, 9 p. m., EST) at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Hector Constance, Trinidad welterweight who is unbeaten in five U. S. fights, takes on Ramon Fuentes, fourth-ranking 147-pounder contender in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night (ABC-TV, radio, 9 p. m., EST). Constance is rated seventh in the division.

Sugar Ray Robinson reaches the "do or die" phase of his comeback campaign on Friday night when he faces speedy Rocky Castellani in a 10-rounder in the San Francisco Cow Palace, (NBC-TV, radio, 9 p. m. EST).

THEN AND NOW—Robert Moses Grove, 55, police commissioner and councilman of his native Lonaconing, Md., reminisces about the 31 games he won for the Athletics in 1931. Lefty Grave has seven other American League seasons in which he won 20 or more victories, six with the A's and another with the Red Sox.

Predict First Four-Heat Race In Hambletonian

The first four-heat Hambletonian stake since 1934 appears likely Aug. 3 when the 30th racing of the $100,000 sulky derby is set at Good Time Park, Goshen.

It's anybody's guess who the winner will be among the four evenly-matched, top-rated colts.

One of the favorites is Galophone, who, with several race wins already behind him, looks as tough to beat in the Hambletonian as does the spring book favorite, Scott Frost.

Scott Frost, Galophone and Childs Hanover needed four heats to decide the Historic-Dickerson Cup last week in Goshen. This race is the leading "dress rehearsal" for the Hambletonian. Each of the horses won a heat, necessitating a fourth scramble which Scott Frost won after Galophone retired.

Another omen of Galophone's potential is the fact that son of Bill Gallon, 1941 Hambletonian winner, copped the Tompkins Memorial the day before the 1954 Hambletonian. This frequently points straight to victory one season later.

The fourth favorite is Something Special, Stanley Dancer's mount, who has already won at Roosevelt Raceway.

None of the owners or drivers of these four has had a Hambletonian winner before.

Among the filly favorites are Arvilla Hanover, already a winner for owner Billy Haughton, who also train and pilots Galophone; Miss Rodney, and Satinwood. Helicopter, who won in 1953, was the last filly to take the Hambletonian.

Bill Cane's annual Grand Circuit meeting, worth more than $200,000 in purses, opens at Good Time Park on Aug. 1. The meet lasts five days, with 556 trotters and pacers eligible for competition. Eixty-eight are eligible for the Hambletonian.

American Legion Beats Saugerties, 6-1, for Ulster County Title

Giannuzzi Gives 3 Hits, Strikes Out 13

Ron Ashdown Slams Solo Homer in 6th

Lorenzo Giannuzzi of Kingston bested Dick Winnie of Saugerties in a battle of strikeouts, 6 to 1, last night as the local American Legion Juniors wrapped up the 1955 county title.

Giannuzzi permitted only three hits, walked six and struck out 13. Winnie also whiffed 13 while yielding eight hits and two free passes.

THE KINGSTON hurler fanned the side in the first two innings and Winnie had five out of six strikeout victims before the Old Capital Motors nine scored in the third.

With two outs, Joey Hoffman lashed a triple to deep left center and scored on Ronnie Ashdown's chopper to third base. Skip Brodhead singled Ashdown to third but was caught stealing for the third out.

A single by Bob Hansen, a wild pitch and Jim Farrell's solo enabled Saugerties to escape a shutout in the top of the fourth.

THE LOCALS bounced back in their half with three runs. Bill Cragan, Giannuzzi and Eric Blackwell produced singles and there were assorted wild throws and walks.

There was nothing tainted about Kingston's fifth run in the fifth. Ron Ashdown delivered it with the batting highlight of the game, a solid home run smash to deep left field. It came on the first pitch of the inning. Winnie showed his resentment by fanning Brodhead, Maines and Cragan in succession.

Johnny Culjak reached second on a two base error by shortstop Erceg in the sixth and scored Kingston's final tally on Blackwell's single.

Blackwell and Ashdown had two hits apiece and two RBIs. Giannuzzi knocked in two runs. Farrell belted a single and triple for the losers.

Middlecoff Cops St. Paul Open

Milwaukee, July 18 (AP) — Dr. Cary Middlecoff moved on toward the national PGA tournament this week after extracting enough first money from the rich Milwaukee Open yesterday to make him top money winner among golf's touring pros this week.

The Memphis dentist set a gallery of some 5,000 to sighing yesterday on the Blue Mound Country Club layout when he went two over par on the 12th hole of his final round, then steadied for three birdies and a 68 that gave him a 15-under-par 265.

FOUR STROKES behind the Masters and Western Open winner were Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N. Y., Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C. and Ted Kroll of Utica, N. Y.

Most of the big field turned today toward Detroit's Meadow Brook course, where Chick Harbert is scheduled to defend his PGA title in the tournament opening Wednesday.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano

Remember the early TV days when your more affluent friends would invite you to see their new fangled phenomenon. After, of course, they had regaled you with wondrous tales of how clear was the reception?

You will recall, too, that the "perfect reception" was inevitably terrible. And your poor embarrassed host would spend the whole night lamenting that "it was never as bad as tonight" and this surely was "the worst reception since I bought the set. . . ."

The same thing is happening to Jake Berinato and Leo "Monk" McGrath these days in a piscatorial sense and the popular midtown restaurant proprietor is absorbing a family size riding from his customers.

It seems that every time Jake and Leo go to Sheepshead Bay for deep sea fishing they return with tales of monstrous catches. But as yet nobody has seen a fish.

Recently, Craig Plough and Bob Saehloff of The Freeman advertising department accompanied Berinato and McGrath on a safari to Sheepshead and returned with about 135 pounds of Porgies and a couple of Blacks. Bill Davis, the guy who owned the boat the Kingston crew fished from, is a naval inspector and has been working out of Island Dock recently.

A few days later, Jake and Monk went back to Sheepshead and fished with Davis, his brother Fred, and the pilot, named Ivan. They claimed they caught about 285 pound of fish in two hours, although they brought none back with them.

Strange as it seems, each time Jake and Monk travel to Sheepshead alone, they always seem to catch loads of fish. But when somebody else makes the trip with them, the fishing isn't so hot. They can't make a strike for falling off the boat.

One carping critic has suggested that the next time Jake and Monk visit New York they bring along a couple of burlap bags and stop off at the Fulton fish market.

These highly hilarious episodes of the deep sea point up the increasing interest of local anglers in deep sea fishing. The whole town seems to be going for the idea and at least three different parties are reported to have chartered boats for expeditions in the next couple of weeks.

One of the excursions will originate from Jake's Grill. . . . Lo, the poor fish!

American Legion Beats Saugerties, 6-1, for Ulster County Title

Giannuzzi Gives 3 Hits, Strikes Out 13

Ron Ashdown Slams Solo Homer in 6th

Lorenzo Giannuzzi of Kingston bested Dick Winnie of Saugerties in a battle of strikeouts, 6 to 1, last night as the local American Legion Juniors wrapped up the 1955 county title.

Giannuzzi permitted only three hits, walked six and struck out 13. Winnie also whiffed 13 while yielding eight hits and two free passes.

THE KINGSTON hurler fanned the side in the first two innings and Winnie had five out of six strikeout victims before the Old Capital Motors nine scored in the third.

With two outs, Joey Hoffman lashed a triple to deep left center and scored on Ronnie Ashdown's chopper to third base. Skip Brodhead singled Ashdown to third but was caught stealing for the third out.

A single by Bob Hansen, a wild pitch and Jim Farrell's solo enabled Saugerties to escape a shutout in the top of the fourth.

THE LOCALS bounced back in their half with three runs. Bill Cragan, Giannuzzi and Eric Blackwell produced singles and there were assorted wild throws and walks.

There was nothing tainted about Kingston's fifth run in the fifth. Ron Ashdown delivered it with the batting highlight of the game, a solid home run smash to deep left field. It came on the first pitch of the inning. Winnie showed his resentment by fanning Brodhead, Maines and Cragan in succession.

Johnny Culjak reached second on a two base error by shortstop Erceg in the sixth and scored Kingston's final tally on Blackwell's single.

Blackwell and Ashdown had two hits apiece and two RBIs. Giannuzzi knocked in two runs. Farrell belted a single and triple for the losers.

Middlecoff Cops St. Paul Open

Milwaukee, July 18 (AP) — Dr. Cary Middlecoff moved on toward the national PGA tournament this week after extracting enough first money from the rich Milwaukee Open yesterday to make him top money winner among golf's touring pros this week.

The Memphis dentist set a gallery of some 5,000 to sighing yesterday on the Blue Mound Country Club layout when he went two over par on the 12th hole of his final round, then steadied for three birdies and a 68 that gave him a 15-under-par 265.

FOUR STROKES behind the Masters and Western Open winner were Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N. Y., Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C. and Ted Kroll of Utica, N. Y.

Most of the big field turned today toward Detroit's Meadow Brook course, where Chick Harbert is scheduled to defend his PGA title in the tournament opening Wednesday.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano

Remember the early TV days when your more affluent friends would invite you to see their new fangled phenomenon. After, of course, they had regaled you with wondrous tales of how clear was the reception?

You will recall, too, that the "perfect reception" was inevitably terrible. And your poor embarrassed host would spend the whole night lamenting that "it was never as bad as tonight" and this surely was "the worst reception since I bought the set. . . ."

The same thing is happening to Jake Berinato and Leo "Monk" McGrath these days in a piscatorial sense and the popular midtown restaurant proprietor is absorbing a family size riding from his customers.

It seems that every time Jake and Leo go to Sheepshead Bay for deep sea fishing they return with tales of monstrous catches. But as yet nobody has seen a fish.

Recently, Craig Plough and Bob Saehloff of The Freeman advertising department accompanied Berinato and McGrath on a safari to Sheepshead and returned with about 135 pounds of Porgies and a couple of Blacks. Bill Davis, the guy who owned the boat the Kingston crew fished from, is a naval inspector and has been working out of Island Dock recently.

A few days later, Jake and Monk went back to Sheepshead and fished with Davis, his brother Fred, and the pilot, named Ivan. They claimed they caught about 285 pound of fish in two hours, although they brought none back with them.

Strange as it seems, each time Jake and Monk travel to Sheepshead alone, they always seem to catch loads of fish. But when somebody else makes the trip with them, the fishing isn't so hot. They can't make a strike for falling off the boat.

One carping critic has suggested that the next time Jake and Monk visit New York they bring along a couple of burlap bags and stop off at the Fulton fish market.

These highly hilarious episodes of the deep sea point up the increasing interest of local anglers in deep sea fishing. The whole town seems to be going for the idea and at least three different parties are reported to have chartered boats for expeditions in the next couple of weeks.

One of the excursions will originate from Jake's Grill. . . . Lo, the poor fish!

The Jet Becomes a 'Hitchhiker'

The world's largest bomber and a good-sized jet are becoming close traveling companions. That's due to a "kangaroo"-type operation which finds the U. S. Air Force's 10-engine Convair RB-36 toting a Republic RF-84F Thunderflash in its belly on global reconnaissance missions. The maneuver, called FICON, combines the bomber's 10,000-mile range and the jet's 2000-mile range.

Ready for storage in the belly of a huge Convair GRB-36 is the 650-mph Thunderflash.

In position, the jet reconnaissance plane is ready for its ride through the air.

Snake and Spider Bite Two Men

Asheville, N. C., July 18 (AP)—A Black Widow spider and a boa constrictor got in their licks against the human race yesterday, sending two men to an Asheville hospital in separate cases.

Cecil B. Pettitt said he was washing his car barefooted when a Black Widow spider bit his toe. A doctor rushed 80 miles an hour with a police escort to treat Pettitt, who will be in the hospital three days.

Kenneth Sexton, an employe of the parkway zoo near here, was bitten by the boa constrictor which usually hugs its victims into submission. Sexton said he was holding the snake when a boy squeezed the snake's tail. The boa reacted by biting Sexton three times on the hand. Doctors said the bites weren't serious.

Christmas Comes Twice a Year

Vicksburg, Mich., July 18 (AP)—The First Methodist Church held a Christmas service yesterday in this farming and papermaking community (pop. 2,400).

The temperature was 90 degrees but some 200 people filled the white frame church and joined in singing carols. Flowers replaced holly.

In his sermon, the Rev. George P. Stanford said "our winter Christmas service is lovely, but it does not have the relaxed quality of our summer service. At Christmas time, people seem to be preoccupied with gift buying and other distractions."

The pastor started the service three summers ago because he found it cooling to sing carols in hot weather.

Billy Graham Leads Prayers For Conference

Geneva, July 18 (AP) — Billy Graham led nearly 25,000 worshippers in prayer last night for the summit conference, which he declared "could well decide the fate of the world."

Standing on the shore of Lake Leman, the American Evangelist urged the Big Four leaders to put aside national greeds and turn to God.

"THE NEXT SIX days could be the most important days in history," Graham said, gazing across the lake toward the Palace of Nations where the historic conference is being held.

"Never before in history," he said, "have so many looked to so few for so much."

Turning to the multitude who listened intently on the grassy banks as his words were translated into French, Graham urged his audience to pray for the four leaders.

"THE BIBLE TEACHES us to pray for our enemies," he said.

"Whatever your political views pray for those on the other side."

"A long era of peace is possible if you pray," he declared.

In Geneva's Notre Dame Cathedral, Msgr. Francois Charriere, Catholic Bishop of Geneva, celebrated a pontifical Mass yesterday and termed the summit meeting a "capital event in the history of modern times."

"ALL THE EARTH stands silent with a complex feeling of fear and hope at the moment when those whom the press has named the 'Big Four' decide the immediate future of the world," Msgr. Charriere said in his sermon.

French Premier Faure, Foreign Minister Pinay and other Roman Catholic members of the three western delegations attended the service.

Encourages Democrats

Washington, July 18 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D.-Ala.) predicted today the Democrats will win next year's presidential election with an upsurge of strength in the midwest, New York and California. Sparkman, the party's 1952 vice presidential candidate, said his travels have convinced him President Eisenhower's reputed popularity is not as great as Republicans contend. "We can win next year's election if we put the kind of effort into the campaign that we should," he said. "It will be a different story from 1952. I don't think President Eisenhower could carry a southern state as of today."

Reds to Prosecute Two Party Members

Tokyo, July 18 (AP)—Red China has announced its intention to prosecute two prominent Chinese Communist party members as "counter-revolutionaries." And Peiping hinted more important members may soon be purged.

A broadcast heard here Sunday said the arrests and placing on trial of Pan Han-Nien, vice mayor of Shanghai, and Hu Feng, a writer, has been approved by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress Saturday.

Both Pan and Hu were members of the Congress, Red China's parliament. Under the constitution they could be arrested only with the approval of the Standing Committee.

The broadcast quoted People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party as saying "counter-revolutionary elements have already sneaked into the Communist party or government organs and some of them are holding important posts of the party."

Democrats Declare Mayor Has 'Hysteria'

Glens Falls, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—The Warren county Democratic chairman says Mayor Milton G. Tibbitt's request for state police aid in curbing gambling here results from either "hysteria" or "politics."

Frank D. Sullivan said in a statement yesterday that the gambling of which Tibbitts complained was of a "purely political nature."

Tibbitts, a Republican, announced last week that he had asked Gov. Harriman twice to assign troopers for undercover work against gambling in Glens Falls. He said the Democratic governor had "ignored" the requests.

Daniel Gutman, Harriman's counsel, responded that he had acknowledged both letters for the governor and had referred the matter to the state police. Tibbitts subsequently withdrew his request and said the governor's office had "flubbed the whole thing."

Twaalfskill Golfers Edge Woodstock, 7-6

Twaalfskill golfers nosed out the Woodstock Country Club swingers, 7 to 6, in a tense best-ball duel in the first half of the annual inter-club competition Sunday on the steaming Twaalfskill fairways.

Because of the heat, the matches were reduced to 13 holes by agreement.

Highlight of the duel was a sensational match won by George Hughes and Dr. Douw Meyers of Twaalfskill over Allen Waterous and Charles J. Turck of Woodstock.

ALTHOUGH Turck posted a career low of 31 and Waterous fired a 36 for a best ball 31, they found themselves trailing Hughes and Myers by a stroke at the end of nine.

Hughes and Myers went on to complete a best-ball 44 for the 13 holes.

The results:

Bill Van Aken-George Svirsky, W, halved with Dick Overbagh-Alvin Boice, T, ½ to ½.

George Hughes - Dr. Douw Meyers, T, d Allen Waterous-Charles J. Turck, W, 1-0.

Louis G. Bruhn-Stuard, T, d Bill Waterous-Boyer Gonzales, W, 1-0.

Herb Waterous-Fred Allen, W, d Dr. Michael Diacovo-Dr. Robert F. Moseley, T, 1-0.

Louis J. Smith-Harry Hartley, T, d Gus Modjeska-Harold Mellin, W, 1-0.

Steve DeLisio-Eric Knutsen, W, d Burt Haver-W. Johnson, T, 1-0.

Ord Morrell-Walter VanWagenen, W, d L. LeFevre-Frank Campochiaro, T, 1-0.

Walter Seaton-Harry Kaprelian, W, and Fabian L. Russell-Floyd W. Flint, T, halved, ½ to ½.

Dave Halpert-Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, W, d Dick Wood-Whelan, T, 1-0.

Walton Fitzgerald-Bob Russell, T, d Louis Kantrowitz-Nick Nicponski, W, 1-0.

Tony DeLisio-John Marcato, W, halved with Robert Umpleby-Dr. John Olivet, T, ½ to ½.

Victor Allen-August Torres, W, and Gus Schrowang-Charles J. Tiano, T, halved ½ to ½.

Leo Yonnetti-Gus Schrowang Jr., T, d Harmon Fischer-Izzy Handler, W, 1-0.

Cornell Receives Grant

New York, July 18 (AP)—Cornell University has received a $750,000 grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, a philanthropic agency, to establish an institute of hospital administration. The program will entail two years of study on the Cornell campus at Ithaca, N. Y., leading to a master's degree in public or business administration in hospital management, followed by a year's residency in a hospital. Beginning in September, 1956, the institute will admit about a dozen specially qualified students each year. The Sloan grant includes provisions for fellowships. There also is provision for personnel for research in hospital problems and instruction.

Miller Brothers Take Three Outboard Races

Narrowly Miss 4th In Saugerties Event

The Miller brothers—Cliff and Bruce—won three of the six events in the annual Saugerties stock outboard regatta Sunday.

The regatta, run in conjunction with the American Power Boat Association and the New York Outboard Racing Association, was held on the Esopus creek and sponsored by the Saugerties Power Boat Association.

CLIFF MILLER scored a double, winning the BSH class in his Lazy Bones Jr., and taking the BU division. He lost a third first by a whisker in the free-for-all.

Bruce Miller sped home in first place in the AU class.

Fred Perry, veteran Poughkeepsie pilot took the DU class. Albert Drumm of Nanuet, L. I., was first in the ASH class and Edward Kuklin of Poughkeepsie captured the free-for-all, with Cliff Miller winning second place. Bruce was third in the ASH race. Perry drove his "Miss Behaving" and Drumm scored in his "Sweet Revenge."

Only mishap of the entire card occurred in the free-for-all when Rube Cohn of Poughkeepsie in a Bu turned over at the Hudson river turn. He was towed back to the stand and reported uninjured.

THE CLOSEST finish on the card came in the free-for-all in which Kuklin beat Cliff Miller in a photo.

After the final event the winning drivers reported at the Saugerties club house where awards were presented by Miss Saugerties in the person of Crystal Jobst who reigned as Queen of the Regatta. Miss Jobst appeared through the courtesy of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce.

Racing officials included Walter Rittie, chairman and commodor of the Saugerties Racing club; Herman L. Snyder, starter; LeRoy Wells, referee; John McDonough, starter; Vincent Kenny Jr., announcer; Raymond Scheffel, pit manager; Florence Wells, chief scorer; Keith Witter, timer; and Jeanne Armour and Ruth Witter, scorers.

The results by classes:

AU Class — 1. Bruce Miller, Kingston; 2. Vincent DeBerto, Newburgh; 3. Vincent Leone, Kingston.

DU Class — 1. Fred Perry, Poughkeepsie; 2. John Scardefield, Wappinger Falls; 3. Harry Dooley, Newburgh.

BU Class — 1. Cliff Miller, Kingston; 2. Joseph Krupa, Hudson; 3. John White, Poughkeepsie.

ASH Class — 1. A. Drumm, Nanuet, L. I.; 2. Robert Henry, Watervliet; 3. Bruce Miller, Kingston.

BSH Class — 1. Cliff Miller, Kingston; 2. William Nieffer, Saugerties; 3. Robert Henry, Watervliet.

Free for all — 1. Edward Kuklin, Poughkeepsie; 2. Cliff Miller, Kingston; 3. John Scardefield, Wappingers Falls.

Double Bump

Eldorado, Ill. (AP)—Harry Gene Devillez, 7, was rushed to a doctor's office for treatment when a door slammed on his thumb. Within a short time he was back with a head laceration after the family automobile tangled with a train at a grade crossing.

The four component parts of an orchestra are strings, wood winds, brass, and percussion.

The Jet Becomes a 'Hitchhiker'

The world's largest bomber and a good-sized jet are becoming close traveling companions. That's due to a "kangaroo"-type operation which finds the U. S. Air Force's 10-engine Convair RB-36 toting a Republic RF-84F Thunderflash in its belly on global reconnaissance missions. The maneuver, called FICON, combines the bomber's 10,000-mile range and the jet's 2000-mile range.

Ready for storage in the belly of a huge Convair GRB-36 is the 650-mph Thunderflash.

In position, the jet reconnaissance plane is ready for its ride through the air.

Snake and Spider Bite Two Men

Asheville, N. C., July 18 (AP)—A Black Widow spider and a boa constrictor got in their licks against the human race yesterday, sending two men to an Asheville hospital in separate cases.

Cecil B. Pettitt said he was washing his car barefooted when a Black Widow spider bit his toe. A doctor rushed 80 miles an hour with a police escort to treat Pettitt, who will be in the hospital three days.

Kenneth Sexton, an employe of the parkway zoo near here, was bitten by the boa constrictor which usually hugs its victims into submission. Sexton said he was holding the snake when a boy squeezed the snake's tail. The boa reacted by biting Sexton three times on the hand. Doctors said the bites weren't serious.

Christmas Comes Twice a Year

Vicksburg, Mich., July 18 (AP)—The First Methodist Church held a Christmas service yesterday in this farming and papermaking community (pop. 2,400).

The temperature was 90 degrees but some 200 people filled the white frame church and joined in singing carols. Flowers replaced holly.

In his sermon, the Rev. George P. Stanford said "our winter Christmas service is lovely, but it does not have the relaxed quality of our summer service. At Christmas time, people seem to be preoccupied with gift buying and other distractions."

The pastor started the service three summers ago because he found it cooling to sing carols in hot weather.

Billy Graham Leads Prayers For Conference

Geneva, July 18 (AP) — Billy Graham led nearly 25,000 worshippers in prayer last night for the summit conference, which he declared "could well decide the fate of the world."

Standing on the shore of Lake Leman, the American Evangelist urged the Big Four leaders to put aside national greeds and turn to God.

"THE NEXT SIX days could be the most important days in history," Graham said, gazing across the lake toward the Palace of Nations where the historic conference is being held.

"Never before in history," he said, "have so many looked to so few for so much."

Turning to the multitude who listened intently on the grassy banks as his words were translated into French, Graham urged his audience to pray for the four leaders.

"THE BIBLE TEACHES us to pray for our enemies," he said.

"Whatever your political views pray for those on the other side."

"A long era of peace is possible if you pray," he declared.

In Geneva's Notre Dame Cathedral, Msgr. Francois Charriere, Catholic Bishop of Geneva, celebrated a pontifical Mass yesterday and termed the summit meeting a "capital event in the history of modern times."

"ALL THE EARTH stands silent with a complex feeling of fear and hope at the moment when those whom the press has named the 'Big Four' decide the immediate future of the world," Msgr. Charriere said in his sermon.

French Premier Faure, Foreign Minister Pinay and other Roman Catholic members of the three western delegations attended the service.

Encourages Democrats

Washington, July 18 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D.-Ala.) predicted today the Democrats will win next year's presidential election with an upsurge of strength in the midwest, New York and California. Sparkman, the party's 1952 vice presidential candidate, said his travels have convinced him President Eisenhower's reputed popularity is not as great as Republicans contend. "We can win next year's election if we put the kind of effort into the campaign that we should," he said. "It will be a different story from 1952. I don't think President Eisenhower could carry a southern state as of today."

Reds to Prosecute Two Party Members

Tokyo, July 18 (AP)—Red China has announced its intention to prosecute two prominent Chinese Communist party members as "counter-revolutionaries." And Peiping hinted more important members may soon be purged.

A broadcast heard here Sunday said the arrests and placing on trial of Pan Han-Nien, vice mayor of Shanghai, and Hu Feng, a writer, has been approved by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress Saturday.

Both Pan and Hu were members of the Congress, Red China's parliament. Under the constitution they could be arrested only with the approval of the Standing Committee.

The broadcast quoted People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party as saying "counter-revolutionary elements have already sneaked into the Communist party or government organs and some of them are holding important posts of the party."

Democrats Declare Mayor Has 'Hysteria'

Glens Falls, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—The Warren county Democratic chairman says Mayor Milton G. Tibbitt's request for state police aid in curbing gambling here results from either "hysteria" or "politics."

Frank D. Sullivan said in a statement yesterday that the gambling of which Tibbitts complained was of a "purely political nature."

Tibbitts, a Republican, announced last week that he had asked Gov. Harriman twice to assign troopers for undercover work against gambling in Glens Falls. He said the Democratic governor had "ignored" the requests.

Daniel Gutman, Harriman's counsel, responded that he had acknowledged both letters for the governor and had referred the matter to the state police. Tibbitts subsequently withdrew his request and said the governor's office had "flubbed the whole thing."

Twaalfskill Golfers Edge Woodstock, 7-6

Twaalfskill golfers nosed out the Woodstock Country Club swingers, 7 to 6, in a tense best-ball duel in the first half of the annual inter-club competition Sunday on the steaming Twaalfskill fairways.

Because of the heat, the matches were reduced to 13 holes by agreement.

Highlight of the duel was a sensational match won by George Hughes and Dr. Douw Meyers of Twaalfskill over Allen Waterous and Charles J. Turck of Woodstock.

ALTHOUGH Turck posted a career low of 31 and Waterous fired a 36 for a best ball 31, they found themselves trailing Hughes and Myers by a stroke at the end of nine.

Hughes and Myers went on to complete a best-ball 44 for the 13 holes.

The results:

Bill Van Aken-George Svirsky, W, halved with Dick Overbagh-Alvin Boice, T, ½ to ½.

George Hughes - Dr. Douw Meyers, T, d Allen Waterous-Charles J. Turck, W, 1-0.

Louis G. Bruhn-Stuard, T, d Bill Waterous-Boyer Gonzales, W, 1-0.

Herb Waterous-Fred Allen, W, d Dr. Michael Diacovo-Dr. Robert F. Moseley, T, 1-0.

Louis J. Smith-Harry Hartley, T, d Gus Modjeska-Harold Mellin, W, 1-0.

Steve DeLisio-Eric Knutsen, W, d Burt Haver-W. Johnson, T, 1-0.

Ord Morrell-Walter VanWagenen, W, d L. LeFevre-Frank Campochiaro, T, 1-0.

Walter Seaton-Harry Kaprelian, W, and Fabian L. Russell-Floyd W. Flint, T, halved, ½ to ½.

Dave Halpert-Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, W, d Dick Wood-Whelan, T, 1-0.

Walton Fitzgerald-Bob Russell, T, d Louis Kantrowitz-Nick Nicponski, W, 1-0.

Tony DeLisio-John Marcato, W, halved with Robert Umpleby-Dr. John Olivet, T, ½ to ½.

Cornell Receives Grant

New York, July 18 (AP)—Cornell University has received a $750,000 grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, a philanthropic agency, to establish an institute of hospital administration. The program will entail two years of study on the Cornell campus at Ithaca, N. Y., leading to a master's degree in public or business administration in hospital management, followed by a year's residency in a hospital. Beginning in September, 1956, the institute will admit about a dozen specially qualified students each year. The Sloan grant includes provisions for fellowships. There also is provision for personnel for research in hospital problems and instruction.

Miller Brothers Take Three Outboard Races

Narrowly Miss 4th In Saugerties Event

The Miller brothers—Cliff and Bruce—won three of the six events in the annual Saugerties stock outboard regatta Sunday.

The regatta, run in conjunction with the American Power Boat Association and the New York Outboard Racing Association, was held on the Esopus creek and sponsored by the Saugerties Power Boat Association.

CLIFF MILLER scored a double, winning the BSH class in his Lazy Bones Jr., and taking the BU division. He lost a third first by a whisker in the free-for-all.

Bruce Miller sped home in first place in the AU class.

Fred Perry, veteran Poughkeepsie pilot took the DU class. Albert Drumm of Nanuet, L. I., was first in the ASH class and Edward Kuklin of Poughkeepsie captured the free-for-all, with Cliff Miller winning second place. Bruce was third in the ASH race. Perry drove his "Miss Behaving" and Drumm scored in his "Sweet Revenge."

Only mishap of the entire card occurred in the free-for-all when Rube Cohn of Poughkeepsie in a Bu turned over at the Hudson river turn. He was towed back to the stand and reported uninjured.

THE CLOSEST finish on the card came in the free-for-all in which Kuklin beat Cliff Miller in a photo.

After the final event the winning drivers reported at the Saugerties club house where awards were presented by Miss Saugerties in the person of Crystal Jobst who reigned as Queen of the Regatta. Miss Jobst appeared through the courtesy of the Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce.

Racing officials included Walter Rittie, chairman and commodor of the Saugerties Racing club; Herman L. Snyder, starter; LeRoy Wells, referee; John McDonough, starter; Vincent Kenny Jr., announcer; Raymond Scheffel, pit manager; Florence Wells, chief scorer; Keith Witter, timer; and Jeanne Armour and Ruth Witter, scorers.

The results by classes:

AU Class — 1. Bruce Miller, Kingston; 2. Vincent DeBerto, Newburgh; 3. Vincent Leone, Kingston.

DU Class — 1. Fred Perry, Poughkeepsie; 2. John Scardefield, Wappinger Falls; 3. Harry Dooley, Newburgh.

BU Class — 1. Cliff Miller, Kingston; 2. Joseph Krupa, Hudson; 3. John White, Poughkeepsie.

Free for all — 1. Edward Kuklin, Poughkeepsie; 2. Cliff Miller, Kingston; 3. John Scardefield, Wappingers Falls.

Detroit, July 18 (AP)—The nation's auto retailers still hold a near-record total of new car stocks. The trade paper Automotive News said today the inventories on July 1 numbered 820,291 units against the record 848,498 on June 1. The latter figure is a revision of the previously announced 841,853 total. Automotive News said the totals include cars in dealers' hands or in transit to dealers from the factories. It added that to provide a more comprehensive picture, the new car stocks of non-franchised operators are included along wtih those of authorized dealers.

Ordered to Rest

New York, July 18 (AP)—Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R.-N.Y.), ranking minority member of the House Ways and Means Committee, returned from Italy today, smiling but under doctor's orders to rest after a heart attack suffered in Rome. Arriving on the liner Constitution, Reed said that he would not be able to return to Europe for the parliamentary conference. After resting here several days, he will go to Washington.

Migrant Worker Sessions Begun

A two-day "idea exchange" session focusing attention on social and religious problems of many of the state's 30,000 migrant workers will be held July 18 and 19 on the campus of Cazenovia Junior College, Cazenovia, N. Y.

Sponsored by the New York State Council of Churches, this annual mid-summer conference on migrant problems will bring together 18 chaplains of the migrant ministry plus representatives of area committees working jointly with the State Council. A total of 60 persons from all parts of the state are expected to attend.

Representing the New York State Council of Churches will be Mrs. Ellen Rutledge and the Rev. Kenneth A. Roadarmel, general secretary.

The entire State Council program is aimed at developing within the migrant a sense of his personal worth and responsibility, plus awakening communities to their obligation of sharing the benefits of community life.

Baptists Pray for Peace

London, July 18 (AP)—World Baptist leaders today cabled their best wishes to Big Four leaders meeting in Geneva and said they were praying for the success of summit conference. Dr. Arnold T. Ohrn, of Washington, D. C., general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, told delegates to the Baptist jubilee conference in London he had sent the following message to Geneva: "The Baptist World Congress representing over 20 million church members from 60 countries met in Royal Albert Hall, London, respectively greet your excellencies and express their thankfulness for your meeting at this time and your intention to plan for peace and not for war."

Newsmen Excluded

Geneva, July 18 (AP)—More than 1,200 newsmen covering the Big Four summit meeting are witnessing a partial return to secret diplomacy. They have been told they will be excluded from all the summit sessions. The principle of the United Nations—open debate—has been found impracticable when top level political deals are being hatched. But the chief press officers of the four delegations agreed at a luncheon meeting yesterday that the speeches of the conference participants would be released after each session, unless the speaker specifically ruled otherwise.

New Laundry Code

Jap Ticket Punchers Strike to Sit Down

Tokyo, July 18 (AP) — Ticket punchers at a local Japanese train station may go on a stand-up strike. They want to sit down.

The weary punchers, wilting in Tokyo's 90 degree heat, have been sitting on tall stools while checking passenger stubs.

But a few days ago, the chair-sitting stationmaster at Tokyo's Yurakucho Station ordered employes to remain standing on the job. He argued that the ticket punchers couldn't get a good look at tickets while sitting. Besides, he said, it looked sloopy.

The local union calls the order an infringement of human rights.

Arriving on the liner Constitution, Reed said that he would not be able to return to Europe for the parliamentary conference. After resting here several days, he will go to Washington.

Migrant Worker Sessions Begun

A two-day "idea exchange" session focusing attention on social and religious problems of many of the state's 30,000 migrant workers will be held July 18 and 19 on the campus of Cazenovia Junior College, Cazenovia, N. Y.

Sponsored by the New York State Council of Churches, this annual mid-summer conference on migrant problems will bring together 18 chaplains of the migrant ministry plus representatives of area committees working jointly with the State Council. A total of 60 persons from all parts of the state are expected to attend.

Prof. Howard Thomas of Cornell University's extension service is coordinator for the two-day meeting. Also in attendance will be Miss Edith Lowery, director of the Home Missions Division of the National Council of Churches.

Representing the New York State Council of Churches will be Mrs. Ellen Rutledge and the Rev. Kenneth A. Roadarmel, general secretary.

The entire State Council program is aimed at developing within the migrant a sense of his personal worth and responsibility, plus awakening communities to their obligation of sharing the benefits of community life.

Baptists Pray for Peace

London, July 18 (AP)—World Baptist leaders today cabled their best wishes to Big Four leaders meeting in Geneva and said they were praying for the success of summit conference. Dr. Arnold T. Ohrn, of Washingington, D. C., general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, told delegates to the Baptist jubilee conference in London he had sent the following message to Geneva: "The Baptist World Congress representing over 20 million church members from 60 countries met in Royal Albert Hall, London, respectively greet your excellencies and express their thankfulness for your meeting at this time and your intention to plan for peace and not for war."

Newsmen Excluded

Geneva, July 18 (AP)—More than 1,200 newsmen covering the Big Four summit meeting are witnessing a partial return to secret diplomacy. They have been told they will be excluded from all the summit sessions. The principle of the United Nations—open debate—has been found impracticable when top level political deals are being hatched. But the chief press officers of the four delegations agreed at a luncheon meeting yesterday that the speeches of the conference participants would be released after each session, unless the speaker specifically ruled otherwise.

New Laundry Code

New York, July 18 (AP)—The State Labor Department's Board of Standards and Appeals said today a new code of safety regulations governing the laundry industry will go into effect Oct. 1. Date for putting the new rules into operation was set today at a public hearing on the new code. A few "minor changes" were made at the hearing, a board spokesman said.

Concord Employes Vote at NLRB Tuesday

New York, July 18 (AP)—A bargaining representation election will be held tomorrow among employes of the Concord Hotel at Kiamesha Lake, Sullivan county, the State Labor Relations Board announced today.

The board said the election was arranged with the consent of the hotel operators and Local 666 of the AFL Hotel, Restaurant and Bartenders International Union.

Under the law, a union which receives a majority of the votes cast is certified by the board as the exclusive bargaining representative of all employes in the appropriate bargaining unit, the board announcement said.

With certain classes of Concord Hotel employes excluded, approximately 475 are eligible to vote.

The board will supervise the secret balloting.

Luckiest Man Alive, According to Police

Cape May Court House, N. J., July 18 (AP)—Police termed this motorist the luckiest man alive:

Edward Bryk, 36, of Philadelphia, fell asleep at the wheel and crashed into a utility pole on Rt. 9 at nearby Swainton yesterday.

The crash knocked down power lines carrying 22,000 volts. Bryk stepped from the car and, police said, either missed the lines or stepped on them at a time when power was off for a few seconds.

He was treated at Burdette Tomlin Memorial Hospital for minor cuts.

Water Rents Due

A water department notice today stressed that water rents are now due at the department's office, city hall, and July 20 is the deadline date for payment without a penalty of 10 per cent. The office is open daily from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Treated for Poisoning

Sampson Air Force Base, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—One hundred seventy airmen were held overnight in the base hospital here for treatment of food poisoning resulting from a turkey dinner served yesterday in one of the four dining halls. All will be released today, officials said.

Government Expenditure

Between 1913 and 1950, federal, state and local government expenditure in the United States multiplied more than 22 times from $3,100,00,000 to $69,500,000,000, says the Twentieth Century Fund.

Heads Rural Carriers

Elmira, N. Y., July 18 (AP)—Maurice Wright of Brushton has been elected president of the New York State Branch of the Rural Letter Carriers Assn. Other officers reelected at the association's convention Saturday were: George Banfield of Van Etten, vice president; Raymond Dorscheid of Alexander, secretary; and Ross Mathews of Woodstock, treasurer.

Airlines account for around 25 per cent of passenger miles in U. S. intercity travel.

Jap Ticket Punchers Strike to Sit Down

Tokyo, July 18 (AP) — Ticket punchers at a local Japanese train station may go on a stand-up strike. They want to sit down.

The weary punchers, wilting in Tokyo's 90 degree heat, have been sitting on tall stools while checking passenger stubs.

But a few days ago, the chair-sitting stationmaster at Tokyo's Yurakucho Station ordered employes to remain standing on the job. He argued that the ticket punchers couldn't get a good look at tickets while sitting. Besides, he said, it looked sloopy.

The local union calls the order an infringement of human rights.
